3-ALARM FIRE ON LONG WHARF

SIX MONTHS FOR RECKLESS AUTO DRIVER

One of the heaviest sentences recently imposed in a case of the kind was given in the Brighton Police Court to-day to Harry C. Oradorff, twenty-four years old, a chauffeur, when he was sentenced to the House of Correction for six months for reckless driving. In addition to that he was sentenced to thirty days more for being under the influence of intoxicants when arrested. He was taken in at Commonwealth and Chestnut Hill avenues after several had narrowly escaped death by being run over as he whirled along at Vanderbilt cup speed.

PICKPOCKETS ON ROMANIC

Pickpockets, disguised as Italian laborers, secured a rich harvest among the steerage passengers of the White Star Line steamship Romanic to-day before she left the dock in Charlestown with the largest passenger list ever taken from this city. Hundreds of dollars in money and quantities of tickets were stolen from the emigrants in the steerage. Many of them were left penniless and without even their tickets. These were allowed to remain aboard by the company after the purchase of their tickets had been verified.

MAYOR HIBBARD IS 44 TO-DAY

Mayor George A. Hibbard had little time for official business to-day with the receipt of congratulations on his forty-fourth birthday anniversary, which was likewise his twenty-second as a married man. Expressions of good will came by mail, telegraph, cable and in the form of some magnificent flowers. An old friend of the Mayor, who is a letter carrier in the post-office, and who was celebrating his sixty-sixth anniversary, sent him forty-four American Beauty roses. Of course, it was up to the Mayor to send a messenger hiking over with sixty-six in kind.

Robert J. McCartney, who was the New England president of the iron-molders when Eben S. Draper broke his pledge to the molders and ordered his employes to withdraw from the union, says:

Every workingman who wishes to make his protest against Eben S. Draper most effective will vote for William N. Osgood, the candidate of the Independence League, for Governor.

HANDS AND FEET TIED, BODY FOUND IN HARBOR

What appears to be a ghastly murder mystery was yielded up by Boston Harbor this afternoon when the body of a man of fifty years or more, apparently employed about the docks, both hands and feet securely bound with bale cord, was found in the waters off Commonwealth Docks, Pier No. 4. There was also attached to the body a heavy stone, and a gash on the back of the head may have been made with a bludgeon.

George Collins, a fisherman, of No. 76 Crescent avenue, Dorchester, cruising near the place in his power boat, made the ghastly discovery. At first he thought it was a cask two-thirds submerged, and to avoid colliding with it he had to bring his boat about in almost its own length. He was then very close to the object and saw it was the body of a man.

Several men on the docks assisted him to get the body out of the water. The harbor police were notified, and responded in a hurry with the police boat Guardian. They took the body to the harbor police office on Constitution wharf.

The man appeared to be about fifty years old, was partially bald, and evidently had been engaged at manual labor. The clothing was a suit of dark-striped material of fair texture, a blue outing shirt, a low celluloid collar with blue polka dot tie, white boots.

Collins said the body was floating face downward with the hands tied behind the back. The rope used was about the thickness of a clothesline. The hands were tied at elbows and wrists; the feet at the ankles with separate pieces of rope. The police say, after a careful examination of the knots, that the man could not possibly have tied them himself if he had committed suicide.

The body appears to be that of a man employed in some position about the docks. It is that of a man 5 feet 4 inches tall and 140 pounds in weight. The rope with which the body was bound is a sort in common use on the neighboring piers to tie up bales and boxes. This the police think is significant.

The body was taken to the North Grove Street Morgue.

TEN ACRES IN RUINS AT SALISBURY BEACH

Special to the Boston American.

SALISBURY BEACH, Oct. 27.—Ten acres of ruins mark the spot today where $200,000 worth of cottages, hotels, stores and other beach property stood before it was destroyed by a conflagration which swept down the beach front just after midnight, driven by a stiff northeast wind.

While thousands of people from Haverhill, Newburyport, Amesbury, Merrimac, Lawrence and other cities and towns in the Merrimac valley are rushing to the beach on every train and trolley, the Salisbury officials are investigating the cause of the fire.

Various places were assigned as the start of the flames, but the general opinion now seems to be that fire was first noticed in the Quartet cottage, which was occupied by some belated cottagers. It is supposed that an overheated stove or defective piping caused the woodwork to be ignited, starting the conflagration.

Blame Incendiary for Fire.

On the other hand, many favor an incendiary theory, and speak of suspicious characters having been seen about the beach late yesterday. It is also said that the sound of a wagon being rapidly driven from the beach was heard just after midnight a few moments before the fire became known.

The latest list of losses includes eighty-two cottages, three stores, three large hotels, three smaller hotels and the historic old Round House, of which John Greenleaf Whittier wrote in "Tent on the Beach."

A freak of the fire was the escape of Charles Rowell's barn, which stands to-day in an area of blackened ruins, unhurt by the flames which raged around it.

Stand Against Flames.

The fire was stopped by tearing down sheds and other outbuildings at the Fowler cottage and by the determined stand of the Amesbury fire department, operating one hose line at the Harvard cottage. The hose line stretched back 3,000 feet along the beach to the little creek by the railroad tracks.

The fire was first noticed by Surfman Jacobs in the watch tower of the Salisbury Beach life-saving station, two miles away. He thought at first that the fire was on Plum Island, just off the Newburyport waterfront. Captain W. A. Charles of Salisbury station telephoned Captain Wells of Plum Island life-saving station that there was a fire on the island, but a moment later Captain Wells called back that the fire was on Salisbury Beach.

Captain Charles rang the "farmers'" alarm along the beach telephone, this serving as a call to bring out every one connected with the beach system. At the same time the Salisbury life crew started down in their beach wagons at a gallop.

About this time Abraham Charland, the newsdealer and one of the oldest men on the beach, started to raise the alarm. With the members of the life-saving crew he ran from one cottage to another, making sure that no one was left sleeping in any of the Summer structures. There was a report along the beach to-day that two people had perished in the fire, but this report is not substantiated. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the Salisbury Selectmen reported there was no loss of life that could be confirmed.

The beach fire brigade has a hand-tub, but the machine refused to work. The firemen, aided by cottagers, tackled the fire with brooms, shovelsfull of sand and anything they could grab up to choke the flames.

Captain Charles of the life station had telephoned the Amesbury fire department, which hitched six horses to a heavy steamer and started the apparatus over the sandy roads of the beach. The six-horse hitch pulled the steamer the nine-mile distance in forty minutes.

The regular Salisbury department sent over a chemical apparatus. The most effective work was done with the Amesbury steamer which threw water 3,000 feet through a hose laid from the railroad creek.

Big Blaze on Water Front Calls Out Great Force of Fire Fighters.

Scores of immigrants were thrown into a panic this afternoon at the United States Immigrant Station adjoining Long wharf by fear of a fire which broke out in the three-story warehouse of the Long Wharf Corporation. The flames spread rapidly and three alarms were turned in.

The great fruit steamers of the United Fruit Company, tied up to the pier, were quickly towed out into the stream and for several minutes it seemed as if they would be ignited by the leaping flames.

The fruit company's warehouse was also imperilled. It contains an immense quantity of bananas and other tropical fruits.

The immigrants were taken out safely, but were thoroughly frightened. This was particularly true of the illiterates and others in the detention pens—a sort of prison—awaiting deportation. They seemed to think they would not be taken out before the fire got to them.

The fire worked down through the great stone warehouse building from the top floor, where it started, to the second floor. On the first floor is the office and distributing station of the Vacuum Oil Company. Here are stored thousands of gallons of lubricating oil, highly inflammable.

The danger caused by the nearness of the fire to the oil caused great excitement along Atlantic avenue. Chief Mullen ordered that a tremendous volume of water be directed at the place where the oil is stored, in an effort to prevent the disaster that seemed imminent.

The fireboat answered the second alarm and did great work. The rushing of the fire apparatus through the congested downtown streets caused the usual excitement, and once on the scene the firemen found it almost impossible to range themselves in the limited space so they could do effective work.

Other tenants of the big warehouse who were imperilled were the Shapleigh Company, coffees and spices; the Felkin Sign Company and the B. B. Crowninshield Company, marine architects.

Several schooners tied to the pier which there was no way of pulling out were in danger, but the firemen had a perfect wall of water intervening between those boats and the fire.

DECLARE WIFE'S DIARY DROVE HAINS TO SLAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The diary of Mrs. Claudia Libby Hains, alleged to have been comprised in a series of letters to her husband, was made public today by Attorney Joseph A. Shay, representing Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., and T. Jenkins Hains. This diary will play an important part in the defence of the Hains brothers when they are brought to trial for the murder of William E. Annis. It will contend that when Captain Hains perused the diary the revelations contained in it shocked him so that his mind became unbalanced.

The defence will further contend that T. Jenkins Hains' letter of warning received by Captain Hains, while he was in the Philippines did not excite his suspicions and that he did not return to the United States on account of that letter.

When he arrived in San Francisco he found a bundle of letters written by his wife and addressed in care of the transport Cook. These letters had accumulated while Captain Hains was in the Philippines. The last of the packages contained the alleged diary of Mrs. Hains. The diary extends from March 3 to April fourth and is as follows:

"Afraid She's Cut Me Out."

Tuesday, March 3rd.

My Dearest Husband—I have been up town with bumming. We went up to supper and went into the Fifth Avenue for a drink and met Billy Annis in there with a bunch of men. We kidnapped him and took him along with us. Mrs. is crazy about him. I am afraid she has cut me out. She is very attractive, has the prettiest mouth and teeth I ever saw, but she can punish the booze. We got home about half-past twelve. It is now one and I am tired. We went into some very queer places and very interesting. Good night, dear, with lots of love and many kisses. Your loving wife,

CLAUDIA.

Turned Somersaults.

Tuesday, 17—I am about to retire after turning a few somersaults in the kitchen for Minnie.

Wednesday, 18—Blank came in this afternoon and rushed the growler. He does that to perfection.

Friday, 20—Good night, dear. See what you are missing by not being with your sporty wife.

Sunday, 22—My Dearest Husband—I had such a headache this morning I backed down on church; not a hang over either, because there was no booze last night.

MAN'S HANDS BOUND AND HIS THROAT CUT

Late this afternoon the Boston police were unable to find any tangible clue to the murder of the man whose body was found in the harbor at Commonwealth docks. The man's hands were tied behind his back and his throat was cut.

LONG WHARF FIRE UNDER CONTROL.

At 4:20 o'clock the fire on Long wharf appeared to be under control. The efforts of the firemen to keep the fire from reaching the stored oil seemed to have been successful. The interior of the two upper stories of the great warehouse were destroyed by the fire.

BENNETT SUES HARVARD MAN FOR $800 LOAN.

The suit of "Poco" Bennett to recover $800 he says he loaned to James Tilton Houghton, a Harvard medical student, on promissory notes, began this afternoon before Judge Bolster in the civil session of the Municipal Court. The defendant is said to be a son of a judge of the Appellate Court of the State of New York.

GOETHALS EXONERATED IN CANAL PROBE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 27.—Inspector-General Garlington of the army, in a report made public to-day, exonerated Colonel Goethals, chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, of charges made by President Brothers of the Balanced Crane Cable Company, who alleged discrimination in granting contracts.

BIG LINER DISABLED; 275 IN PERIL OF DEATH

FURNESSIA, WITH ENGINE BROKEN, DRIFTS AT MERCY OF FURIOUS GALE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—After having faced disaster in mid-ocean, during which the lives of the 275 passengers on board were imperilled, the Anchor line steamship Furnessia arrived in New York from Glasgow to-day. For thirteen hours the Furnessia drifted helplessly about in a terrific storm. Her engines were out of commission and the big liner was at the mercy of seas that were mountains high and a wind blowing at ninety miles an hour.

The Furnesia left Glasgow ten days ago. Last Wednesday morning the cross-head guide of the engine broke. This rendered the liner helpless. A strong gale was raging at the time. The Furnessia spun around in every direction at the mercy of the wind and the sea until a sea anchor was rigged up. Then she ran before the storm for thirteen hours, until the cross-head guide had been repaired.

While the liner was at the mercy of the sea, tons of water poured into the hospital room and three children were injured. Many passengers were bruised by being hurled against posts during the heavy storm.

Captain James Lunsdale of the Furnessia said his experience during the storm was the worst in his career.

CATHOLIC PRELATES IN HUB TO-DAY

Falconio, Being Entertained at the Cathedral Rectory, to Celebrate Mass.

NOTED CHURCHMEN ARRIVE

This afternoon the high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States are arriving in Boston to be present at the five-day celebration of the centenary of the founding of the diocese of Boston.

Chancellor Splaine of the archdiocese made every preparation for the reception of the distinguished visiting prelates and carriages were at the stations to receive them.

To-day the rectors of the different Catholic churches of Boston are entertaining their distinguished guests and the faculty of Boston College has thrown open the doors of that institution. The formality of the visitors first going to the Cathedral to pay their respects to Archbishop William H. O'Connell was dispensed with.

Falconio at Rectory.

Most Rev. Diomede Falconio, papal delegate to the United States, is the guest of honor at the rectory of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

The papal delegate will be the celebrant of the solemn pontifical mass, the first of the ceremonies which is to introduce the celebration.

Every preparation for the centennial period is complete. The work of decorating the great Cathedral is to be finished before nightfall. In the vicinity many houses are draped with the national colors, which have been prescribed by the Archbishop as the only decorations to be used on this occasion.

The triumphal arch in Bay State road is practically complete, while the Archbishop's residence has been transformed by the decorator. By to-morrow morning everything will be in readiness for the first ceremony, the solemn pontifical mass in the Cathedral.

Where Prelates Stop.

The prelates are being entertained as follows: Bishop Guertin of Manchester, N. H., with Rev. William P. McQuaid, St. James Church, Harrison avenue; Bishop Louis Walsh, Portland, Me., with Monsignor Denis O'Callaghan, St. Augustine's Church, South Boston; Bishop John J. Harkins, Providence, R. I., with Rev. John O'Brien, St. Catherine's, Somerville; Bishop Fitzmaurice of Erie, Pa., and Bishop Ludden of Syracuse, at the Mission Church, Roxbury; Bishop McFaul of Trenton, N. J., with Rev. Arthur T. Connolly, Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Jamaica Plain.

Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn, and Bishop Beaven of Springfield, with Monsignor Magennis of St. Thomas Church, Jamaica Plain; Archbishop Keane of Dubuque, Ia., with Monsignor O'Callaghan, St. Augustine's, South Boston; Bishop Hennessey of Wichita, Kan., with Rev. Father McQuaid, St. James, Harrison avenue.

Bishop Gabriels of Ogdensburg, N. Y., with Rev. Peter Ronan, St. Peter's Church, Dorchester; Bishop Allen of Mobile, Ala., and Bishop Casey, of St. John, N. B., with the Jesuits at Boston College; Archbishop Quigley of Chicago, with Rev. J. E. Millerick, St. Joseph's, West End; Bishop Northrop, Charleston, S. C., with Very Rev. William G. Byrne, St. Cecilia's, Back Bay; Bishop Burke, St. Joseph, Mo., with Rev. Joseph Gallagher, St. Patrick's Roxbury.

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE RALLIES

To-night—Fall River, McKinley Hall, Weavers' Building, Second street; speakers, Thomas L. Hisgen, candidate for President; William N. Osgood, candidate for Governor; Robert J. McCartney, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Haverhill; Dr. Charles W. Copeland, candidate for Congress, Thirteenth District; John E. Dempsey, candidate for State Auditor; Edward J. Cantwell.

HOLY NAME MEMBERS BEING TRAINED FOR BIG SUNDAY MARCH

That the hundreds of companies of the Holy Name Society to parade Sunday afternoon in the Back Bay section of Boston are trained to march with soldiery precision, Major John J. Leonard, the chief marshal of the pageant, has been assured by the different commanders.

Never before have the details for a civic parade been worked out with such complete exactness, and Major Leonard can tell to the minute at what time the parade is to appear and march by any one point of the line of march. The fourteen division commanders have given all of the captains under them explicit directions as to the marching of their commands.

The rains of last night did not materially harm the decorations already displayed in the city, and Major Leonard is now full of hope that next Sunday will be fair.

The police regulations call for mounted and unmounted police along the route.

Five first aid stations are to be established, and in case there should be an accident or some of the parading men be taken ill medical attention will be prompt and skilled. Five physicians have volunteered their services. At each of these stations there will be at least two trained nurses.

The last meeting in connection with the parade is to be held in St. Rose's Hall, No. 17 Worcester street, on Friday evening, when Major Leonard will meet the officers of his staff and issue his final orders and receive the last reports.

HEAVY VOTING FOR LEAD IN TOUR CONTEST

Ballots Pouring In By the Thousands for Favorites in Great Race.

THE SPECIAL BALLOT.

When you vote by Special Ballot you send your candidate ahead by votes of 1,000 at a time.

It's the easiest and most satisfactory way to vote.

Order the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN sent to your home for thirty weeks and you will be allowed 1,000 extra ballots, which you may cast for any teacher you desire.

Write and ask for further particulars.

This is going to be another big week in the BOSTON AMERICAN Free European Tour Contest.

The voting will be much heavier than it was last week. There will be many new entries when the list is published again, and, judging by the activity yesterday, some of the leaders are pretty sure to be in different positions.

Among the new Sunday School teachers entered yesterday in the contest is Miss Lillian Horn of the Second Universalist Church, Columbus avenue and Clarendon street, Boston. She was started with 100 votes. Accompanying the ballots was a note, as follows:

"European Tour Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN:

"Enclosed please find 100 votes for Miss Lillian Horn of the Second Universalist Church, Boston. Good luck to her. "A FRIEND."

Mrs. Mary Leighton of No. 59 Jay street, Cambridge, forwarded 500 votes for Miss Leona Kelley, also of Cambridge, and a letter, as follows:

"European Tour Editor:

"Enclosed please find 500 votes and a subscription to the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Credit the votes to my favorite little candidate, Leona Kelley, No. 156 Hamilton street, Cambridge; Church of the Blessed Sacrament. Wishing her all the success possible, I am,

MRS. MARY LEIGHTON."

From West Medford was received a brief note calling attention to the fact that Miss Beatrice G. Fernald, a candidate in District No. 4, is a teacher in the West Medford Baptist Church instead of the Medford Baptist Church, as appeared in the Sunday list. The note read in part:

"Please correct. SHE'LL WIN YET!—A Friend."

All candidates in the contest are urged to notify the European Tour Editor about coupon parties, etc., being arranged in aid of their candidacy.

Also early voting is urged this week.

MISS CURTIS, BOSTON, WINS GOLF MATCH

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 27.—Match play began this morning in all four of the eights that qualified in the golf tournament of the Wilmington Country Club. As is usually the case when the sets are less than sixteen, the second division is almost as strong as the first. A heavy shower about daylight made the links like a sponge.

The automatic draw in the first set brought Miss Mary Adams of Boston, low score winner of yesterday, against Miss Curtis of Boston, ex-national champion. Miss Florence Ayres, Philadelphia, vs. Mrs. Caleb Fox, Philadelphia; Mrs. Annetta Phipps, Springfield, Mass., vs. Mrs. Ronald Barlow, Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Griscom, Philadelphia, vs. Miss Fanny Osgood, Boston, Eastern champion.

In the second set the pairings brought together Miss Elizabeth Porter, Boston, vs. Mrs. Milton Work, Philadelphia; Miss Margery Phelps, Boston, vs. Mrs. E. H. Fitler, Philadelphia, and Miss Eleanor Allen, Boston, vs. Miss Grace Semple, St. Louis, while Miss Frishmuth, Philadelphia, won by default from Mrs. S. C. Price, Philadelphia, who fell down stairs at the clubhouse last night. No bones were broken, but she will be laid up for several days.

The matches in the first two eights proved exceedingly close on the first half, with two exceptions. At the turn in the first set, Ayres and Fox were even, Phipps one up on Barlow, Adams five down at the turn and Griscom one up on Osgood. At the turn at the second set Semple was one up on Allen, Phelps and Fitler even and Porter three up on Work.

There was a decided surprise when Miss Curtis beat Miss Adams 7 up and 6 to go. The latter lost the first four holes in succession and was 5 down at the turn, Miss Curtis having gone out in 43, with a couple of bad holes.

Mrs. Fox beat Miss Ayres, 2 up, 1 to go.

Miss Osgood beat Miss Griscom five up and two to go; Miss Phipps beat Miss Barlow one up nineteen holes.

PRINCE HENRY UP IN AIRSHIP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Ger., Oct. 27.—Count Zeppelin's airship made an ascension to-day with Prince Henry of Prussia and Captain Mischke as passengers. The airship started in the direction of Ueberlingen, to the northward of Lake Constance.

CLEAR MORSE ON CHARGE OF FEDERAL FRAUD

First Count of Indictments Against Banker Is Dismissed by the Court.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The first count of the indictments against Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, former president of the Bank of North America, on trial, charged with violations of the national banking law, was dismissed by Judge Hough in the Federal Court to-day.

This count charged Morse and Curtis with conspiracy to defraud the United States government by falsifying reports to the Comptroller of the Treasury at Washington. Judge Hough's ruling, made against the vehement argument of United States District Attorney Stimson, was a decisive victory for the defendants.

"I cannot find any evidence that would reasonably convince me that it ever entered the minds of either of these defendants that they might, would or could defraud the United States government," Judge Hough said.

The argument to dismiss the seventy-nine counts in the indictments was carried on in the absence of the jury, which remained at the Astor House. Judge Hough was of the opinion that matters not pertaining to evidence might be introduced in argument, and it was better that the jury should not hear them. The argument to dismiss the indictments was the first gun for the defence.

FALSE "MAD VENUS" GIVEN JAIL TERM

Miss Phoebe Philips, who when arrested by the Boston police a short time ago declared that she was Grace Darby, "the Mad Venus," who escaped from the Taunton Insane Asylum three years ago, was given the record sentence of nine months in the House of Correction by Judge Wentworth in the Municipal Court on the charge of drunkenness to-day.

Procession of the Clergy at Cathedral To-morrow

FOLLOWING is the order in which the Roman Catholic church dignitaries and officials march from the rectory to the Cathedral to-morrow. They will leave the parish house by the entrance on Union Park street, proceeding by way of Union Park and Washington to the main entrance of the Cathedral in this order:

Censer bearers.

Cross bearers and acolytes.

Sanctuary choir in surplice and cassock.

Clergy of diocese—about 600 in number.

Heads of religious orders in diocese—about 20.

Monsignori in purple robes—about 20.

Oriental prelates in full oriental robes. (First time ever seen in America.)

Visiting bishops and archbishops.

Archbishop O'Connell, attended by his personal suite, which includes Cross Bearer Rev. John J. Crane and Acolytes Rev. William P. McQuaid and Rev. Denis J. O'Farrell.

Officers of the mass with Papal Delegate Monsignor Falconio bringing up the rear.

Archbishop O'Connell and Monsignor Falconio will both be dressed in full "cappa magna," which means that they will wear all the robes of their office.

SILSBY GETS BAIL FOR WIFE; RETURNS HOME

WALTHAM, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Rose A. Silsby has been cheered by the return of her husband, Eben Silsby, after an absence of several weeks. It is understood that he has been working without rest during that time to find somebody who would provide $5,000 bonds required for her release from the East Cambridge Jail.

She is confined in a cell there pending the action of the December Grand Jury on the charge of manslaughter made against her. It is claimed by the State that she shot Clinton E. Childs at her home on Beaver street in this city early on the morning of September 24.

One of the stories told at the time of the tragedy was to the effect that the woman had been forced to use a revolver to protect her sixteen-year-old daughter from her visitor.

Mr. Silsby said that he would stand by his wife to the end and cheered her with the promise that he would try to provide a bondsman. It was reported that Mrs. Silsby did not know where her husband had gone and was heart-broken because he did not write. But Mr. Silsby has kept his own counsel. When he returned home on Sunday he refused to say where he had been, or to make any statement until he had talked with City Solicitor Thomas F. Carey, his wife's attorney. It is understood that he has sent word to Mr. Carey that he has been able to arrange for bonds.

PORTO RICAN LINER AFIRE FAR AT SEA

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 27.—The steamer Luckenbach of the Insur line, on her way to San Juan, Porto Rico, with forty passengers on board, was reported afire at sea to-day by a wireless message received here.

The wireless was received from the steamer Philadelphia, which reported that the fire was in the main hold of the Luckenbach, but was under control when the message was sent. The Philadelphia was convoying the Luckenbach. The message was sent from a point 580 miles south of Sandy Hook and 700 miles east of Charleston.

DIAZ MAY AGAIN BE A CANDIDATE

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27.—President Diaz will say in an open letter to-morrow regarding his rumored retirement at the close of his present term in 1910 that the reports are premature and unfounded. President Diaz says the statement attributed to him was merely an expression of a personal desire. He intimates that he will again be a candidate.

BRAKEMAN IS FATALLY HURT

Fred J. Fielding of New London, Ct., a brakeman employed on the Midland Division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was knocked from a train at the Norfolk street bridge, Dorchester, early to-day and fatally injured. He was taken to the South Station on a special train, transferred to an ambulance and taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Florence
Oil Heater

You wouldn't be without an oil heater if you knew how convenient it is to have one in the house. And you wouldn't have any other oil heater but the Florence when once you know how much superior it is to the kind usually sold. Cold air from the floor is heated and circulated without contact with the flame.

First of all, the Florence Oil Heater is absolutely safe. Wick cannot creep up. Easily cleaned and filled. Indicator shows when the reservoir is full.

Here's another convenience—you can heat water quickly on the top of it. You can carry it from room to room. Handsomely nickel-plated, making the Florence the prettiest heater sold.

If your dealer doesn't sell them send for our illustrated catalogue, giving full description.

Remarkable Demonstration for New Party Orators in Downpour

5000 CHEER HISGEN IN BOSTON RALLIES

Every Seat in Tremont Temple Taken and Hundreds Turned Away, in Spite of Tremendous Rainstorm --- Independence Candidate for President Greeted by an Inspiring Demonstration.

Fully 5,000 cheering men and women braved the pouring rain to greet the State and national leaders of the Independence party, including Thomas L. Hisgen, nominee for President; ex-Congressman M. W. Howard of Alabama, William N. Osgood, candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, and Robert J. McCartney, his running mate, at three wonderfully demonstrative gatherings last night.

In Tremont Temple Mr. Hisgen received a tremendous ovation from a crowd which filled the great auditorium from pit to gallery. Between 500 and 600 people were turned away early in the evening, owing to a belief in their minds that they could not be admitted except by ticket. Other rallies were held at Faneuil Hall and the Dudley Street Opera House, both being well attended.

The leaders of both the Republican and the Democratic parties are to-day alarmed at the enthusiasm shown for the new movement.

The Tremont Temple audience was far larger than that which heard Eben S. Draper and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in the same auditorium, on a pleasant night.

The Democrats recently had to cancel a Vahey rally scheduled for Faneuil Hall owing to lack of attendance.

The great interest shown in the new party cause last night was the more remarkable owing to the fact that only one newspaper in the city, the AMERICAN, had advertised the three meetings.

The thousands who ignored the downpour were disappointed because William Randolph Hearst was unable to address them as expected; in former Congressman Howard of Alabama they found an admirable substitute.

Mr. Hisgen came up the right centre aisle of Tremont Temple at 9:37, while Mr. Howard was holding the audience spellbound by his wonderful forensic powers; but the moment a few of the auditors in the rear of the hall recognized him, pandemonium was set loose, and cheer after cheer shook the lofty roof of the auditorium.

The former Congressman was retiring when the presidential candidate ascended the rostrum, and sat down, but the crowd called for him to conclude, and after he did so, they gave him a vociferous "curtain call."

The welcome to Mr. Hisgen was deafening. It was several minutes before he could command attention. He seemed evidently overwhelmed by the great demonstration in his favor.

HISGEN DECLARES TRUSTS ARE THE GREATEST ISSUE

Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens of the Good Old State of Massachusetts: It does my heart good to get back to my old home State once again, having traveled through almost every State in the Union and spoken in nearly every large city for the cause which we are advocating in this campaign—the advancement of the Independence party and the uplifting of the great mass of the American people.

At no time during my trip did I forget Massachusetts nor the 76,000 voters who stood by me last Fall when I was a candidate for Governor of this State. I want every man who voted for me last year not only to vote the Independence party ticket this year, but to go out and get at least one more voter to cast such a ballot. I am sorry that I have not been able to canvass this State from one end to the other in support of the splendid ticket that you have placed in the field.

I ask you to vote for William N. Osgood, the Independence League candidate for Governor. I know him to be a good, honest, conservative, able, public-spirited citizen. I know that he stands for the interests of the people. I know that he stands and has fought for years for the only legislation that would put the Government into the hands of the people—the initiative and referendum. The people of Massachusetts will make no mistake if they place in the State House on Beacon Hill William N. Osgood.

I also urge upon the voters of this State the necessity for electing a man as Lieutenant-Governor of the calibre of Robert J. McCartney, a splendid specimen of the great army of organized labor of the land. Mr. McCartney has the ability to fill the position to which he aspires and organized labor could place no man in the Lieutenant-Governor's chair who would look more carefully after their interests.

Independence Ticket Superior of All.

I believe that the entire Independence party ticket is equal in every way and superior in many ways to any other ticket presented to the voters of this State, and I trust that on election day they will poll a magnificent vote.

If I judge the people rightly, my friends, they are getting tired of hair-splitting candidates. What we want is to go back forty or fifty years and have another real rail-splitter.

My friends, everybody except the politicians and the bosses have come to this conclusion: There is need of a new party.

And I want to say to you there has been a new party born. Like the old Republican party, this party is born big to accomplish what we have started out to do.

The greatest issue before the people to-day is the trust issue—the Standard Oil. Mr. Hearst has proven to you how the Standard Oil Company reaches up into the high places of our Government and controls our lawmakers and the policies of this country.

I will give you a sketch of my life and tell you something that I myself and my brothers have actually experienced. It is not ancient history. When you are told and when you come to vote you will at least know something about the Independence party candidate.

I was born in the State of Indiana. You know, I have always thought it was a nice thing since I have been a candidate to be born in one State and live in another, to draw from both sides, and they must have found out something else for me—that I came from German and Irish parents. Well, I certainly came from a large family—six boys and five girls. A good, old-fashioned family, which you seldom see at the present time, simply because the trusts have advanced the cost of living so high that you cannot afford them.

When I reached the age of sixteen or seventeen I did what thousands of others have done before me. I went back to Albany, where my father and mother were married and came from, and I was not there a great while before I secured a position as a salesman in a clothing store. A little while after that the entire family moved back, and, as my brothers came along, they secured positions in the same store. We worked together for a while, earning good pay and attending to our business, and after we had been in the store for seven or eight years we thought it would be a most excellent thing to go into business for ourselves.

Crush Competition, Oil Trust System.

Mr. Hisgen then went into details, describing his victorious fight against the Standard Oil, the attempt of the Trust to buy them out, and he added:

We refused their offer, and I want to pause here for a moment and give you an idea of what we may expect from the younger Rockefeller.

The son will soon step into his father's shoes. He has already laid down a law and a creed that he expects to live up to. A few years ago, at Brown University, he delivered a lecture, and in defending the methods of the Standard Oil Company he used as an illustration the American Beauty rose. The only way the American Beauty rose can be brought out in all its beauty is to have every bud cut off the stem, in order that the one on top may blossom and bloom into this beautiful flower.

In other words, if there are a thousand buds on the American Beauty stem, nine hundred and ninety-nine must be cut off, killed and destroyed in order that the one on the top, that represents the Standard Oil Company, can bloom and blossom.

And that means, my friends, that out of every thousand small business concerns nine hundred and ninety-nine must be crushed and killed in order that the Standard Oil Company could make $800,000,000 in less than eight years' time.

We were one of the buds. We had to be cut from this stem and destroyed, and Captain Kidd, the famous pirate of the sea, never scuttled a ship with greater determination than Rockefeller, the Standard Oil Company, preceeded to put us out of business.

The Standard Oil Company's agent came into our place of business and said to me:

"If you dare to wholesale oil in the city of Springfield we will put the price down where you cannot meet it, and drive you out of business. We are going to do the oil business in this town if we have to give oil away." I looked at him and replied:

"I am fully aware of the great influence and the money you represent. I have seen thousands of financial wrecks you have caused. I have seen hearts break, strong men go mad or commit suicide. But I want you to carry this message back to 26 Broadway: That we were born in the State of Indiana, not far from Missouri, and the Standard Oil Company will have to show us."

Then the fun commenced; then the fight waxed warm. Oil at that time was selling at 12½ cents. In less than two weeks it was down to 9. Then a sliding scale, 8½ cents, 8 cents, 7½ cents, and there is where we had to stop. They thought they had us whipped—and so did I.

But there was just one more effort that we were going to make. I went out and I took the public into my confidence. I gave them a hand in the fight. I told them what we had done and what we were doing and I found this out: "That if you have a cause and it is right and you let the public have a hand in it you will win out every time."

Now, I want to ask you what Mr. Bryan or Mr. Taft has done. What have they risked for the benefit of a cause? What have they risked in politics or anything of that kind? Mr. Bryan, if he is defeated this trip, will write another book, and, instead of calling it "The First Battle" he will call it "The Third Battle, and Lost."

And there is Mr. Taft on the other side. Mr. Hearst said the other day: "He is nothing more or less than a great, big, good-natured messenger boy for a man in the White House, and if he is elected it will be to keep the White House chair warm until Mr. Roosevelt goes to Africa and kills all the lions and comes back, and then we will have another eight years of him."

I will put alongside these two candidates my humble achievements as compared with anything they have done, and that is one reason why I am a candidate in the Independence party.

I am no politician and I have attended strictly to my business.

I want to say to you that, while I have no choice between Bryan or Taft, I want to tell my Democratic friends that if they vote the Democratic ticket they will have the delightful pleasure of voting the same ticket that is being supported by the Standard Oil Company.

It matters not what the outcome of this election will be, there is one thing certain. You will not find one dollar of the trust's money in our campaign fund, and you will not find one man in our party to-day that has "got a pass" from the railroad companies travelling through our country here.

HAD NO LIFE OR AMBITION

A Railroad Man at Fitchburg Tells How His Prejudice Against a Popular Remedy Was Overcome.

The symptoms of general debility vary according to the cause but weakness is always present, a tendency to perspire and fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, sometimes black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, vertigo, wakefulness caused by inability to stop thinking and unrefreshing sleep. The cause of the trouble may be some drain on the system or it may be mental or physical overwork, sometimes insufficient nutrition due to digestive disturbance. In the latter case there is generally a loss of appetite and a coated tongue as well as general languor and debility.

Mr. George A. Herrick, of 4 Caswell street, Fitchburg, Mass., a locomotive engineer on the Boston and Maine R. R., says:

"Last November I was taken sick and called a doctor, who told me that I was all run down. After six weeks or so of his treatment I was no better and decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began to take the pills I had no ambition or life. I had no appetite, was weak and could not work. I suffered from headaches, had no color and my heart action was very poor.

"I was so nervous that the slightest thing annoyed me and so cold most of the time that I almost froze. I could hardly walk down town. I had poisoned myself before I was taken sick and the poison was in my blood causing a running sore on my ankle.

"A friend called me to the telephone one night and asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Out of curiosity I bought a box. In a short time I began to improve and soon was back at work. My gain was almost beyond belief. Now I enjoy better health than I ever have and can stand exposure and hard work.

"Although I had a strong prejudice against Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I believe they are the greatest blood-builder and nerve tonic there is."

These pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

WHICH IS RIGHT?

From Today's Boston Globe.

The Independence League' rally in Faneuil Hall last night was largely in the interest of Junius T. Auerbach, candidate for Congress in the Ninth District. Judging from Mr. Auerbach's speech, there is going to be "something doing" in that district up to election day. * * * There were between 400 and 500 persons present.

From To-day's Boston Journal.

But the Faneuil Hall rally was a sad thing compared with the big demonstration which Socialist Candidate Debs got there, and even with the rather feeble showing made by the Democrats a week later. By actual count when Colonel Clement L. Pollock of Dorchester arose to present the presidential candidate. There were just 97 men and boys in the hall.

OSGOOD MAKES PLEA FOR RIGHTS OF WAGE EARNER

Speech of William N. Osgood, Independence League Candidate for Governor, at Tremont Temple:

"I wish to thank you for your kind reception. Your numbers prove that the citizens of Boston are deeply interested in the principles advocated by the new party—the Independence party.

"Before treating of the subjects which I have in mind, I want to say a word or two concerning the speaker who has just addressed you. I have known Robert J. McCartney but a short time, but during that period I have learned to respect and admire him.

"I respect and admire him as a man of sincerity and strong sterling qualities. I respect and admire him as a splendid type of American citizenship. He occupies the ideal position of being an employer and an employe, because he not only employs men, but he works shoulder to shoulder with them. He is in full accord and sympathy with them.

"His interests are their interests and their interests are his.

"This is in accordance with the teachings of the Independence party, that the interests of the employer and employe are the same. Normally there can be no antagonism between them.

"The more employers are encouraged by enlarged opportunity to use their capital, the more are employes benefited and the greater their opportunities.

"I am not here to plead the cause of any individual. I am here for a different purpose. I am here to advocate the immortal principles underlying the Independence party. Primarily I am here to advocate real and literal popular government and to protest against pretended and fictitious popular government.

"I am here to plead the cause of the thousands and thousands of unemployed men and women who are walking our streets because their opportunity to work has been destroyed by trusts and monopolies.

"I am here to plead the cause of the thousands of small merchants and manufacturers whose ruin is threatened by those who control the natural resources of the country, dictate the price of the very necessaries of life, increase or decrease at will the purchasing power of wages and practically determine the standard of living for the American people.

Strong Enough to Right Wrong.

"Still I am not one who despairs of political and social progress. I believe that we are strong enough and patriotic enough to right any wrong that may exist. Indeed, we have witnessed advance and improvement in many directions during the past few years. Notably is this true when we consider the kind of men who no longer venture to aspire to public office.

"A few years ago it was possible for a railroad president, a special legislative counsel for a public utility, like a railroad, telegraph, telephone or gas company, to announce himself as a candidate for high office at the hands of the people, with some hope for success.

"That is a much more difficult thing to do to-day. This is because the selfish interests of a public utility corporation are deemed antagonistic to the public interests.

"Their representatives, therefore, must now be content to remain officials and attorneys of such corporations and not try to ride two horses going in different directions at the same time.

"I would like briefly to compare our party, its principles and platforms with those of the other parties.

"The Republican party has become the stationary party, the party that is satisfied with things and conditions as they are. It is inspired by the philosophy that 'Whatever is, is right.' It has become the special agent of special privilege.

"It says, let us alone until after election and we will revise the tariff, the injunction law, the Sherman act and anything else you may desire; just retain us in office.

"What do we find upon examining the Democratic platform and principles? We find that that party is evasive, insincere and contradictory. It advocated one thing yesterday, advocates another thing to-day, and no one can tell what it will advocate to-morrow.

"It has allowed its policies to be shaped by the Standard Oil Company, and can no longer claim to be a party representing popular government.

"It has omitted from its platform the two planks which were most strongly advocated by its leaders in the past, those of direct legislation and public ownership of public utilities.

A Party of All Classes.

The Independence party is the best representative of popular government now presented to the American public. It has the planks favoring direct legislation and public ownership. It unequivocally pledges itself in favor of the immediate public ownership of the telegraph. Against that proposition no tenable argument can be advanced.

"I have made this statement many times during the present campaign, and no one has challenged or answered it. If silence assents, then the proposition is admitted.

"If the public ownership of the telegraph then is right, why in the name of justice has there been no public agitation for it until the Independence party took it up? Yet in 1880 a special committee of Congress reported in its favor and recommended an appropriation for that purpose.

"The sinister influence which then prevented an appropriation must indeed have been potent since that time.

"The Independence party is not the party of any class, but the party of all classes. I believe that the interests of labor and capital are the same, that the true interests of the small merchant and the interests of the laborer depend upon curtailing the power of monopoly.

"If the railroads grant favorable rates to the large shippers over the small ones, it restricts not only the employment of capital, but the employment of labor.

The Standard Oil monopoly, the greatest the world has ever seen, was able to drive out of business many independent distributers of oil, because of its influence over national monopolies—the railroads.

"If the rates were uniform, if a man sending one ton of freight paid the same rate as the man sending one hundred thousand tons, as is charged in sending letters through the postoffice, a publicly-owned institution, the Standard Oil Company could not destroy independent oil merchants.

"Then, instead of having one Tom Hisgen, we would have a thousand, and much more capital and labor employed throughout the country.

"What we want is greater and greater opportunity for both labor and capital.

"When we are told that the resources of nature are inexhaustible, we reply then release the hands of monopoly from them, so as to afford equal opportunity to both factors of production.

"We insist that under normal and natural conditions opportunities would be hunting the capitalist and the laborer and not the reverse.

"A word or two in regard to a State matter. I wish to draw the attention of the present administration on Beacon Hill to a source of revenue which has apparently escaped their attention. It is the nonpayment of any money by the railroads of the State for selling liquor on their trains. They have many barrooms in their dining and buffet cars, literally barrooms on wheels, running through a large number of cities and towns. They pay no license where licenses are granted, and sell liquor everywhere in violation of law.

"Yet one-fourth of all license fees collected by cities and towns are paid into the State treasury of Massachusetts. These fees amounted in 1907 to $832,308.94—a very large sum and a material part of the entire sum collected by the State.

"Why are these railroads not required to take out licenses? Is it because they are so powerful as to defy the law? Are they impelled by the same ideas of law as old Commodore Vanderbilt was when he was told his board of directors refused to pass a certain vote because it would violate the statutes?

"He exclaimed: 'How can a railroad be run according to statutes?'

Success in Unity.

"In conclusion I would urge you to aid us in our efforts to organize the American people into a strong and permanent political force for popular government.

"As individuals we can accomplish little in political reforms. The average American citizen is inclined to think he is a king because he happens to be a part of the great republic, and I regret to say he is often told so by our Fourth of July orators.

"Instead of being a king, he is but a small and insignificant part of a king, as the sovereignty is vested in the entire people and cannot be expressed except by their united action.

"Hence I say organize for political action. If we cannot accomplish all this year, we may accomplish more and more as the years go by.

"We should remain true to our faith, even though we do not succeed in converting the world in a day, or in beholding at once the full and complete fruition of our cause."

GREAT THIRD PARTY IS TO FREE INDUSTRIAL SLAVES

—Ex-Congressman M. W. Howard

In his speech at Tremont Temple last night ex-Congressman M. W. Howard of Alabama said in part:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Citizens: I certainly appreciate the seemingly heartfelt welcome you tender to me here in historic Boston, the home of independence.

"I am here to-night to endeavor to take the place on this platform of one of the greatest patriots in this country, William Randolph Hearst. (Cheers.) A man who is doing more for the people and for the people's government to-day than all the politicians combined.

"In the United States Senate last Winter," he continued, "Senator La Follette said, and proved, too, that 100 men or fewer controlled the wealth of this country, and he might have added that the Standard Oil Company owned that 100 men.

"For twenty years after the terrible internecine conflict which threatened to disrupt our grand nation the two old parties fought over the war. Old Dr. Democrat and Old Dr. Republican got tired of this after a while, and then fought it out over the tariff.

"'If you'll only give us a chance to get in, we'll show you how to fix the tariff,' said Old Doctor Democrat. Well, they got in, and they SETTLED the tariff, and we haven't heard anything more about that.

"Since then they've been fighting about NOTHING.

"You see, the North had been waving a bloody shirt, and the South had answered back, 'There's a nigger in the woodpile.' And the shirt got so worn and tattered and torn that they had to go and bury it.

"But now, my dear fellow-citizens, all this is over. The solid South is forgetting, and party lines aren't quite so closely drawn as of yore. They're showing more independence in voting. It isn't a crime any longer to split a ticket—it used to be our boast that we never did.

"The so-called 'conservative,' who drifts with the tide, never brought anything to the world.

"In every age the laws have been made for the protection of the strong. It's about time we got to making a few laws for the protection of the weak. And that, I say to you, is the great and fundamental reason why that eminent patriot, William Randolph Hearst, thought of organizing this Independence party—that the poor, and the suffering and the downtrodden, as well as the rich and powerful and strong, might have the benefit of equality in government."

Mr. Howard concluded with a powerful plea for direct legislation, the initiative, referendum and recall of public officials. He was given three cheers at the end of his speech and compelled to rise in acknowledgement of the enthusiastic demonstration he received.

INDEPENDENCE PARTY FOR WORKERS, SAYS M'CARTNEY

Robert J. McCartney, Independence League Candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, at the Tremont Temple rally said:

"I have joined the Independence party because I am thoroughly convinced that it is the party of the workingman. I have been active in the organized labor movement for sixteen years, a portion of which time, namely, eight years, I was executive head of the iron molders of New England. So that I feel that I am competent to look at the situation from the standpoint of organized labor. On the other hand, I am equally convinced that the Independence party is the party of unorganized labor. During my connection with the trades union movement I have been in a position to see the treatment dealt out to the workingmen by the old political parties and by their spokesmen of the daily press. It is time that a political party came into existence in which the working classes were given the consideration due them as the chief producers of the wealth and the chief basis of the prosperity of the nation.

"I had a personal experience with the industrial attitude of Mr. Eben S. Draper and also with the good faith which he showed in his treatment of the working classes. In October, 1905, Mr. Draper, when a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor for the first time, asked for a conference with the officials of the Iron Molders' Union of North America. At the conference were the president and vice-president of the National Organization of Iron Molders, the New England organizer, a brother molder from Fall River and myself. The conference was brought about by a friend of Governor Guild. Mr. Draper asked for the conference, he said, to adjust the condition of the molders of Hopedale. At the conference he said that he knew nothing of the tyrannical treatment of the molders at Hopedale; he said that he would remove all obstacles to organizing the molders there. He went further and offered to take our officers to Hopedale to show that he was friendly toward the union and escort them through the plant. We told him that this was unnecessary and that the best way to prove his friendliness would be to put his promises into practice. When our organizer went to Hopedale he learned that the men had been notified that if they joined the molders' union they would cease to be employes in the Draper plant. Mr. Draper promised the officials of the molders' union that he would allow the men to be organized, but he threatened the men that if they joined the union they would lose their jobs in the Draper plant.

"Two weeks ago I delivered at a rally in Lynn a carefully prepared speech telling how Mr. Draper had tricked the Molders' Union. I sent a copy to all the papers in Boston and only one paper printed the speech—the BOSTON AMERICAN.

should know of my charges against Draper. But as I said before, the daily press of the country is secretly hostile to organized labor and like the old political parties is secretly in alliance or in sympathy with the class of men of whom Eben S. Draper is an example and who are the greatest foes of the working classes, the greatest obstacles for their progress and advancement.

JEWEL CHARGE A LIE, INSISTS MRS. DUNPHY

HUB WOMAN INDICTED IN CHICAGO GETS CONTINUANCE IN LARCENY CASE.

Mrs. Martha Mabelle Dunphy, wife of Dr. John Dunphy of No. 194 Huntington avenue, denounced as an utter falsehood to-day the charge of larceny of $10,000 worth of jewelry and stock made against her by Charles E. Giles of Boston and Chicago. She declares she does not owe Giles anything and that he trumped up a story against her in a spirit of revenge.

The charge was made in Chicago and Mrs. Dunphy was indicted by a Cook County Grand Jury. She was arrested in this city yesterday by Inspector Conboy at the request of the Chicago police. In Boston Municipal Court to-day she secured a continuance of one week. She is preparing to fight the case vigorously. She will contest any effort to extradite her to Chicago.

"It's an outrage," she said with wrathful emphasis after to-day's hearing. "It's the biggest pack of lies I ever heard. If there is any trial we will have it right here and not in Chicago."

Indicted by Chicago Jury.

Dr. and Mrs. Dunphy have lived on the third floor at No. 194 Huntington avenue for two years. They formerly lived on Bulfinch street, convenient to Dr. Dunphy's office, which is the headquarters of a well-known medical institute in Scollay square.

Mrs. Dunphy is a handsome woman, thirty-two years old, with plump, well-rounded figure. She dresses well. For the court hearing to-day she wore a gray suit with a picture hat and a heavy brown veil.

Mrs. Dunphy was recently in Chicago. She was visiting her sister there. According to the Chicago dispatches Charles E. Giles, the Boston and Chicago business man who is the complainant against Mrs. Dunphy, says the alleged larceny of jewelry and stock took place two weeks ago. It is said that Giles came on to this city after Mrs. Dunphy returned here. Evidently failing in whatever he came here for, he hastened back to Chicago and went to the police. The next step was the returning of a true bill against Mrs. Dunphy by the Cook County Grand Jury.

Asked for Woman's Arrest.

October 23 Captain O'Brien of the Chicago Detective Bureau wired Police Chief Watts of this city for the arrest of Mrs. Dunphy on an indictment warrant charging her with larceny from Giles on October 12 of the following valuables:

One diamond brooch, valued at $1,500.

Two pairs diamond earrings, valued at $500 each, $1,000.

One diamond scarfpin, valued at $1,500.

Also three diamond rings, not valued, and 240 shares in the Halleck Medical Institute, par value of $25 each, $6,000.

Yesterday afternoon Inspector Conboy went to the Dunphy flat at No. 194 Huntington avenue and arrested Mrs. Dunphy. She was taken to police headquarters and booked on the Chicago charge.

No time was lost by her friends in coming to her relief. In less than one hour John P. Feeney had been secured for her counsel and an intimate friend of Mrs. Dunphy, Mrs. Elizabeth Frothingham of this city, had come to headquarters with a roll of bills for bail. The latter was fixed at $4,500, and cash was immediately furnished by Mrs. Frothingham.

Accompanied by Woman Friend.

In good season to-day Mrs. Dunphy, accompanied by Dr. Dunphy, left their flat and went to Attorney Feeney's office. From there Mrs. Dunphy went to the law courts building, where she was to be arraigned in the second session of Boston Municipal Court before Judge Ely.

She was on hand when her case was called at 10 o'clock. Dr. Dunphy was not there, neither was Giles. The prosecution was represented by Police Inspector Conboy. Mrs. Dunphy was accompanied by Mrs. Frothingham.

When the case was called Mrs. Dunphy started forward to the rail, but a man from Attorney Feeney's office stepped forward and asked for a continuance of one week for her. Judge Ely granted the continuance and bail was continued in the same sum, $4,500. Mrs. Dunphy and Mrs. Frothingham started out, the hearing having taken but a moment.

In the corridor of the law courts building Mrs. Dunphy and Mrs. Frothingham gave a brief but emphatic interview to the BOSTON AMERICAN:

"It's an outrage," said Mrs. Dunphy warmly. Mrs. Frothingham nodded an emphatic assent.

"It's a pack of lies, the biggest I ever heard," continued Mrs. Dunphy, the trimming on her picture hat quivering in unison with her energetic nods.

Asked if she would fight extradition, Mrs. Dunphy replied:

"If there is any trial we will have it right here, not in Chicago."

Giles Had Tremont Street Office.

Charles E. Giles, Jr., of No. 48 Bowdoin street, Dorchester, the complainant in the larceny indictment, gave up his office at No. 43 Tremont street some weeks ago, agfter receiving an offer from a horseman of Chicago to take charge of his business there, and went to Chicago to complete the arrangements. He returned to Boston a week ago to close up certain transactions but said he should go back to Chicago at once.

At the Carney Building Mr. Giles handled mortgages and loaned money on collateral, but often said he did not like the business and was noted for his fondness for horses. He had been identified with the horse business in the West and his friends believe that he has located in Chicago for good.

KELIHER INVOLVED IN PIPE LINE OUTRAGE

AUERBACH BARES OPPONENT'S RECORD IN WHITNEY LEGISLATIVE SCANDAL.

Faneuil Hall, although the rain poured in torrents, was crowded last night at the rally in the interest of Junius T. Auerbach, candidate for Congress against Keliher in the Ninth district.

Clement L. Pollock of Boston presided and the speakers were Presidential Candidate Thomas L. Hisgen, former Congressman M. W. Howard of Alabama and Mr. Auerbach. Mr. Auerbach said:

The voters of the Ninth district are asked to accord an unprecedented favor to John A. Keliher. The favor is asked by Mr. Keliher himself, and the manipulation of machine politics has made it possible for him to be a party nominee for Congress for the fourth time. I would not be found as a candidate against Mr. Keliher unless I could offer unusual and just reasons not only why John A. Keliher should not be returned to Congress, but reasons that should deter honest and thinking men from seeking ever again to honor him with the trust of public office.

His record justifies no further honors from the hands of the district. There are few in Congress at any time that have been so much opposed to the needs of business or the dictates of humanity, where a Congressman has so openly appeared as the enemy of the man who works, as the enemy of the tradesman, as the enemy of the manufacturer, the child, the woman, the home.

Wrong on All Big Measures.

The list of his endeavors shows a chronic disregard of the interests of his district, and the interests of the nation. It shows a blind subserviency to those who do not believe in honest government, honest labor and honest business. The discussion of this record will take time, more than is allotted to me in one evening. I am sure the citizens of his district will be astounded by their laxity in allowing his successive re-elections, their ignorance of a misrepresentation that has become almost a crime.

In general he has voted wrong on every big, beneficent measure which seemed for the benefit of this district and his country. He has always been against the person, for the dollar. Those whom this administration has attacked as violaters of law, enemies of progress, enemies of law and labor, and extortioners, have been his chosen friends. He has stayed with them loyally. His district has not occurred to him. Look with me at his picture. He has had a prior experience in legislative circles. He represented portions of this district in our home Legislature, in the days when the records of our legislatures were not scrutinized as we scrutinize them now, and when the traitor was accepted more easily than we are now disposed to allow, with our present advanced state of desire for faithful public servants.

I have examined that record at the State House. Except that the subjects are somewhat different, it is the same as in the National Congress. Neglect of his duty, contempt for the poor, contempt for the child, for those that labor, for the purses of the poor, against health, the opponent of reasonable rates, of honest business, and everything that we now call reactionary and corrupt. Let me show you the specific facts.

Voted Against the Motormen.

I can remember, not many years ago, when the motormen on the L road were exposed to the fierce blasts of Winter, without covering and without protection, a prey to all diseases which come in New England from such neglect. I have heard it said that they died like flies in Winter, and you yourselves have seen them almost frozen, with eyes glaring, and beards covered with icicles, and the humanitarian went year after year to the Legislature with a bill to have the cars enclosed, and each year they were defeated. There were other John A. Kelihers always loyal to the company. It is said that he company is loyal to him to-day, for he was one of their mainstays. He voted against that bill, saying that the employes of the railroad did not want it, and you remember that a few were forced to say that they did not want it.

I wonder if Mr. Keliher to-day thinks they did not want it, and is sorry for the way he voted? I wonder if he still thinks that the Elevated could not afford to vestibule their cars? I wonder if he would say, as he used to, that the motormen could not see through the glass? I wonder if he was there again would he vote the same way? I should hate to think so, but it seems likely, because I have examined his recent votes.

Did you ever hear of the Massachusetts Pipe Line Company? Did you ever hear of that saturnalia of crime, that debauch of bribery? Did you ever hear of one Whitney? There was a man named Whitney who ran for Governor last year, and they say it was the same man. Never was a steal carried through the Legislature so fiercely as this. The speculator promised everything, gas at 30 cents a thousand feet forever, and the bill carried enormous powers, rights in the highways, perpetual franchises, many perpetuities. Oh! but that was a fine year to have been a member of the Legislature for the John A. Kelihers. A howl of indignation went up from the public, and the instigators of this piece of legislation saw that real work was necessary, and they opened headquarters and the daily quotations on legislators rose and fell with the chance of success or failure. The bill was passed by the use of the most enormous sums of money, the most open bribery, successfully concealed, that ever before disgraced Massachusetts. There was afterwards the usual investigation which disclosed damaging evidence, and as usual with no results.

His Record a Disgrace.

I simply mention this circumstances to show that there was a Keliher, John A. Keliher, by name, who was one of the Whitney boomers, one of the legisitors who was in favor of this charter, who worked openly and voted time and time again for the bill against the efforts of the honest to defeat it.

He was in training for his later successes," as the handyman for the buyers of laws, for those whose successes come from purchased immunity, from regulation for those whose idea of honest business is extortion and corruption. The same man that represented you then represents you now, and he asks you for a fourth term, which you did not give his faithful, loyal predecessors who did not sell the good name of the district, nor barter their own good name, nor sell your privileges.

I am going to keep at John A. Keliher, exposing him, telling the truth about him until the close of this campaign. And I will strip him of his clothes of respectability and leave him in rags of shame and disgrace. I will tear his fine raiment into ribbons. It's a duty. I never shrink from a duty and I'll not now. His record is a shame and a disgrace and his re-election would be a shame and a disgrace to every man, woman and child in the Ninth District. He is the same kind of a man to-day that he was when purchasing agent of Boston when the gangs of thugs, repeaters and colonizers about him stole the doormats from the City Hall, took and sold the tops from the street lamps and stole even the paint from the walls of City Hall. Remember the Fenway "graft" and the asphalt steals. You can trace them to the gang around Keliher.

"Supine Submission to Trusts."

In those days they had no Finance Commission. The gang had full swing, and the gang was the gang we find behind John A. Keliher. Beware of the man who never works. You haven't found the secret of living without working and I haven't found it, but John Keliher has. I'm not a wild-eyed reformer who'd cut down a whole tree because it had a rotten limb. And I don't condemn corporations as a whole. I believe in honest business, in corporations employing men and giving them a fair wage for a fair day's work. But the toiler for the corporation, who gives of his honest toil, is different from the John A. Kelihers, who sell the people's trust, that soulless and greedy corporations may through legislation oppress the real worker and wax fat at the expense of the people.

He followed his unsavory record in the Legislature with a career in Congress that has been but a willing yet supine submission to the demands of the trusts. Keliher can't be accused of being actuated by patriotic motives in voting against the pure food bill, against the bill for a larger navy, in favor of the bill continuing injunctions and against the eight-hour bill. Oh, not there was no patriotism in Keliher's attitude on those bills. He was doing his work, doing it as he done so often before, doing it for his masters, the trusts, and doing it well.

His vote on the pure food bill meant, so far as he cared, that the wives and mothers and children of this district might have poisoned food. But the Beef Trust would be pleased.

His vote on a larger navy helped keep men idle and some families starving; yes, even starving in Charlestown. But the Steel Trust was pleased.

His vote in favor of injunctions meant that, so far as he cared, workingmen and organized workingmen only, might be cast into jail without a trial by jury. But the law-defying trusts who have made our laws would be pleased.

"Caught with the Goods."

And his vote against the eight-hour day meant that he cared little how long a man was forced to toil so long as greedy employers were pleased.

That's Keliher in Congress. Do you want him again? If you like that sort of a man, why that's just the sort of man you like. But you'll not vote for him this year without knowing all about the man. He does not dare go on the stump and defend his rotten record. He's been caught with the goods." He sold you out, and he can't even defend himself. He does not dare say that I have not been telling the truth about him.

There was a man elected in this county three years ago. His name was Moran. He was an honest man. The people believed him and elected him and elected him again. He had only one newspaper in Boston supporting him. And I have but one. I am making the same fight as John B. Moran made. I'm telling the truth; I'm exposing hypocrisy; I'm trying to correct a wrong.

Keliher's business, I repeat, is the delivery of the goods and the goods are the rights of the people. Let him join the Society of Unfaithful Public Servants, in which he is entitled to high place.

Robert J. McCartney, who was the New England president of the iron-molders when Eben S. Draper broke his pledge to the molders and ordered his employes to withdraw from the union, says:

Every workingman who wishes to make his protest against Eben S. Draper most effective will vote for William N. Osgood, the candidate of the Independence League, for Governor.

HUNT MISSING BACK BAY POST OFFICE CLERK

Federal Authorities Charge Accounts of William J. Powers Are Short $1,200.

LEFT WIFE AND CHILDREN

No trace has been found of William J. Powers, the Back Bay postoffice money order clerk who disappeared from there on September 30th and for whom it is alleged the postal authorities are making a search all over the country. They claim that his accounts are short $1,200.

Powers held his place in the money order department for a year and had been promoted to it as a reward for ten years' of excellent service. He had the confidence of Superintendent Hanson and was very popular. His accounts up to the day he went away were always correct and when the clerk who relieved him took charge he accepted Powers' word that everything was all right and did not check up. Powers handed him $100 in bills explaining that the rest of the day's receipts, about $1,200, were in the safe. Later he found the safe was empty.

The missing clerk left behind his wife and two children, one five the other two years old. Mrs. Powers had to break up her home at No. 54 Wadsworth street, East Boston, and is temporarily living with her mother, Mrs. Norton, at No. 200 Byron street. She is looking for work. She declined to say anything to-day except to say that her husband had been away once or twice before but never for so long a time. If he left and had taken the government's money, she said, he must have been demented. He had always been extremely devoted to her and the children and seldom went out of the house after getting home from his day's work in the postoffice.

Powers's parents live at No. 64 Auburn street, Chelsea. John Powers, his father, said nothing had been heard from him and they were greatly worried lest foul play had been his fate.

SQUADRON LEAVES FLEET FOR CHINA

NO MORE BALD HEADS

New Discovery for the Hair Attracts Crowds at the Local Drug Stores.

The recent announcement that a new discovery, known as Birt's head wash, the wonderful remedy for the prevention of baldness and falling hair, has been placed on sale in Boston at Houghton & Dutton Co.'s, R. H. White Co.'s, the Riker-Jaynes Stores and other leading drug stores, has brought a steady stream of men and women to these stores to secure a supply of the preparation. Its success in Boston has not surprised its proprietors, for long before it was decided to place it on sale in drug stores it was used in the private practice of physicians in curing dandruff and scalp diseases, the primary causes of baldness and falling hair. Only one or two applications of Birt's head wash are usually sufficient to work wonders with the most obstinate cases, and what has long been a source of worry to so many men and women alike has become a thing of the past since Birt's head wash was discovered. A full supply may be had at the above stores for 50c.

Also a full supply of Birt's head wash, sufficient for the most obstinate case of dandruff and falling hair, will be sent to any address, all charges prepaid, by Birt's Laboratories, 243 Greenwich st., New York, on receipt of 50c. in stamps or silver.

GUESTS FLEE BURNINGHOTEL

LITTLETON, Oct. 27.—A score of guests at the Littleton House, the only hotel in this village, were driven from their beds late last night by a fire which started in the barn at the rear of the hotel and spread quickly to the main structure. Most of the guests had time to save their personal effects, but the hotel, with much of its furniture, was burned, as was also a double house just east of the hotel, owned by Mrs. Charles Lawrence. The total loss is $12,000.

JUMPS FROM TRAIN WHILE HANDCUFFED

Leadville, Col., Oct. 27.—Sherman Morris, alias Frank Shercliffe, recently convicted of the murder of John Walsh, a Leadville saloonkeeper, fifteen years ago, escaped from the sheriff early this morning while being taken to the penitentiary at Canyon City to serve a twenty-five-year sentence. Morris, while handcuffed, jumped from a car window as the train was approaching Canyon City. He was brought here for trial from Michigan.

UNDERMINED BY RAIN, BUILDING COLLAPSES

THOUSANDS LOST IN CRASH OF NEW POWER PLANT AT PLYMOUTH.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 27.—The new three-story power plant of the Colonial Rubber Company, at Tiltonville, collapsed last night and thousands of dollars of damage was done as the result of the heavy rainfall in this section. The power plant was ready for occupancy and was only waiting for the installation of the boilers. The immense amount of rain undermined the brick walls of the building, with the result that the whole structure collapsed shortly after 10 o'clock.

The foot bridge in front of the Colonial Rubber Company's factory was carried away and great sections of the road were carried into the stream below. The flow of water on the streets was too great for the culverts and the water stood a foot deep in the highway flooding cellars and causing great damage.

In Plymouth the streets were like mountain torrents. Great gullies were washed in the highways and traffic over them was difficult early to-day. Scores of telegraph and trolley poles were carried away and the tracks of the street railway undermined by the floods.

SAY SLAYING DUE TO FIGHT OVER WOMAN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27.—Police Inspector John P. Haran has arrested Roberto Callo, twenty-one years old, an Italian laborer, living in Albro street, the Italian colony here, charging him with the murder of his room-mate, John Fucci, a baker, whose body riddled with bullets was found last Wednesday in the roadway near West Barrington.

The police will seek to establish a double motive. It is to be claimed that the men were long ago rivals for the hand of the woman who subsequently became Mrs. Fucci and who is now in their common home, Naples. On the day of the wedding Callo swore a "vendetta" but later appeared to have foresworn his purpose and became Fucci's most intimate friend, and when he followed Fucci to America the latter took him as his room-mate.

The police will also try to prove that Callo loaned Fucci $25 to pay his board and that the latter had refused to make an effort to repay the loan.

Callo claims he was in bed as early as 7 o'clock on the night of the murder, but the police say they will prove by reputable witnesses that he was seen boarding the West Barrington car at a later hour that same night.

MONKEYS GIVE SEEKONK SCARE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27.—For the last few days there have appeared four of the monkey tribe in the town of Seekonk and there seems to be some mystery surrounding their appearance.

The climate of Rhode Island is far too frigid in the Winter months for the monkeys to last over a season, but those captured are at least three or four years old. One theory is that many of the simians are imported into this country by Italians who live in the town of Seekonk and reared for the organ grinding business, but none of these report the loss of any of their animals the source of supply is still to be solved.

ACCUSED AS JEWEL THIEF, SENT TO CELL

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 27.—Archie E. Blood of this city is behind the bars at the jail at Howard because he could not furnish bail in the charge which was preferred against him.

Blood is charged with stealing watches, diamonds and other articles of jewelry from the Caesar Misch Company, where he has been employed for the last five years.

Many of the articles have been traced to the Hub. It is charged by the police of this city that Blood's method was to take the jewelry from the store and offer it for sale direct at greatly reduced prices. He was arraigned on a warrant charging embezzlement of four watches valued at $51, two chains at $7.50, four diamonds at $110, one diamond ring at $30 and two watches at $22.

To this charge Blood pleaded not guilty and was locked up in default of $1,500 bail. The case was the ncontinued to November The case was then continued to November none of his relatives appeared in the court.

YOUR DISTRESSED STOMACH WILL FEEL FINE FIVE MINUTES LATER

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take some Diapepsin.

Fantastic Musical Comedies Predominate at the Theatres

Keith's Theatre.

One of the funniest skits at Keith's Theatre is "Cherrie." The piece is from the pen of George V. Hobart, and, of course, horse racing and slang are the two principal features. A quarrel between a young couple helps the plot along, but the real fun is the unconventional love-making between Clayton White as Bruce Ascot, immensely rich—to let him tell it—race track follower, and Marie Stuart as "Cherrie" Bertram, a friend of the young wife, who has had a row with her husband over the proper shade of the rug for the dining room. It is one continual roar of laughter from the time the curtain goes up until peace is restored and the curtain falls.

Bessie Wynn, who came on at short notice to take the place of Eva Tanguay, sang sweetly and danced delightfully.

Annette Kellermann is repeating her dancing and diving acts. Her feats in the big tank are truly marvelous to those who see them for the first time.

Leo Donnelly, a newspaper man, has a monologue in which he intersperses humorous and pathetic stories. The turn is well received.

Some fine music, some of it from grand opera and some that is not grand opera, is played in a pleasing way by Melville Ellis. The rest of the bill is good.

Globe Theatre.

With a score of catchy songs and a host of pretty girls, May Ward arrived at the Globe Theatre last night as the star of a new musical comedy entitled "The Cash Girl."

With Tim Cronin in the role of Bill Hicks, a vaudeville actor, and the diminutive Snitz Edwards as Sherlock Holmstead, a detective, the audience is kept in a continual uproar. Their appearance on the stage is an occasion for laughter.

Although the piece is somewhat conventional, it was clearly demonstrated last evening that it is one of the best shows seen at this theatre in a long time.

As Mary Day, the cash girl, May Ward was never seen to better advantage. She sings a number of very catchy songs, with a number of pretty stage affects, and her dancing was a treat. In many of her dances she was assisted by eight pretty maidens. These young maidens are not unknown to Boston audiences. They are the original "Dresden dolls," who did much to make Miss Ward so popular on the vaudeville stage.

The plot, unlike many seen in musical comedies, is a good one. It centres around Mary Day, the cash girl, and is a pretty romance. One of the features was the introduction of Miss Jennie Prager, premier danseuse, in her dance of Mephisto.

Among some of the songs which made hits are: "I'm a Detective," "When a Pretty Peeping Ankle Peeps at You," "Pretty Polly," "My Moonlight Maid" and "If I Told You That I Loved You."

The Orpheum.

Every act at the Orpheum this week is a full-fledged headliner. Daisy Lloyd, comedienne and songstress, and the Four Mortons in their sketch "Breaking Into Society," were heartily received.

Master Mirsky Gynt, the fourteen-year-old boy soprano and protege of Caruso, won the audiences yesterday.

Barnold's dog and monkey pantomimists are almost human, and presented one of the best animal acts. Without any human guidance the dogs and monkeys perform all manner of interesting and difficult feats.

Willy Zimmerman gave a most timely impersonation of the Presidential candidates, Taft and Bryan, as well as many of the composers and band leaders.

Julian Rose, back from his London triumphs, in a sketch entitled "Levinsky at the Wedding," and the others all were more than up to the standard.

Boston Theatre.

Wilson Melrose scored a decided triumph last night in the role of the Rev. Edgar Linnell in the play, "The Hypocrites," that is being presented at the Boston Theatre. The part does not give any chance for heroics, but there is much chance to exploit the kind but firm character of the true clergyman, and the way that Melrose brought out those traits last night proved a surprise to the vast audience.

Mr. Melrose shared with Eleanor Gordon in the applause. Miss Gordon is in a role a little different from those that she has been portraying lately. She appeared as the loving but proud mother of the young son that caused all the trouble around which the play is written. In this role she was excellent. In some of the scenes, especially those with Dudley Hawley, as her son, and with Mr. Melrose she showed a degree of emotion and mother-love that was true to nature.

Gertrude Binley, as Rachel Neve had a part that required great skill. Rose Morison was right at home as Mrs. Blaney.

The presentation as a whole is especially strong.

Castle Square Theatre.

In the hands of the John Craig stock company at the Castle Square Theatre J. M. Barrie's comedy, "The Admirable Crichton," at last night's initial performance, kept the large audience in a continuous giggle. There were few bursts of hearty applause, but so full of quiet art was the work of John Craig as the butler, Crichton, that from the time he appeared until the close every line was thoroughly appreciated.

Craig's performance as Crichton was a finished piece of acting, and his critical audience soon woke up to the fact that the lines of the play with all of its droll subtleties of humor were being wonderfully well brought out. George Haskell, as the Earl of Loam, attracted a full share of applause, which was not stinted because it was deserved. Mary Hall as Lady Mary Lasenby knew well how to be the haughty lady and then when misfortune arrived to eat her humble pie. And then when fortune smiled she was equally capable of being the snob and forgetting the desert isle and her engagement to marry the butler-ruler. Mary Young as Tweeney, the little servant, made one of the hits of the night, while Donald Meek was very amusing as the Honorable Ernest Woolley.

Grand Opera House.

"When Women Love," a four-act melodrama, presented by a strong company under the direction of Frank W. Nason, was produced before two large audiences at the Grand Opera House yesterday.

The play is the oft-repeated tale of the battle of a much persecuted girl who finally conquers over all her foes and marries the man she loves and who aids her to accomplish the defeat of her enemies.

The title of the play is explained in the lines during the play when the villainess and scheming persecutor of the girl, when she declares to him, after questioning his faithfulness, "When women love they will even go to perdition."

All the elements of human passions were fully portrayed and there was just enough comedy interwoven to relieve the tension. Miss Ethel Nason and Walter V. Milton furnished this feature in most approved style and Miss Nason was showered with bouquets.

Park Theatre.

The audience which packed the Park Theatre last evening proved that the longer "The Thief" stays in town the more it appeals to the public. The plot of the play is entirely out of the common. It is the first stage piece in which a woman is depicted as stealing in order to make herself so attractive that she will hold her husband's love. It is a higher passion than vanity which impells the heroine in this instance. Kyrle Bellew as the husband is seen in a different role than he has been accustomed to assume of late years and does some very effective acting. In fact, the whole company is of high-class ability.

Colonial Theatre.

"The Soul Kiss" at the Colonial is a musical travesty which has made a very strong impression on the local theatregoing public. It is very sumptuously mounted, and is the acme of everything a Broadway show is supposed to be. But the strongest magnet of the entertainment is Adaline Genee, who, as dancer, comes very near forming a class by herself. No more graceful being ever was seen upon the stage. She has more than technique, faultless as hers is, to commend her. She is the poetry of motion. She gives four distinct dances in "The Soul Kiss." The company is an exceptionally strong one.

Majestic Theatre.

"The Girl Behind the Counter" has the whole town for customers at the Majestic Theatre. This show, with Lew Fields and Connie Ediss in the most important roles, had to be exceedingly clever, according to musical comedy standards, to run a year on Broadway. But those who have seen it here understand its great New York vogue. It is a very entertaining affair. It is replete with high-class comedy and taking music, and is produced with lavish hand as regards costuming, scenery and every other detail. The company is a fine one. Miss Ediss is a comedienne of rare ability and Mr. Fields is doing in this piece the best work he has ever done.

Hollis Street Theatre.

"The Round-Up" at the Hollis Street Theatre is now on the last week of a long run. It could stay the season out to big patronage, if its success so far is an indication. This is a play of the West which unites striking scenic effects with splendid acting. The story of the play is also very appealing to the heart of the populace. Persons who have seen the fight between the Apaches and United States troops in an Arizona canyon as illustrated in this play, will carry always an indelible picture of what is possible in stage realism. Macklyn Arbuckle's performance as the sheriff is a dramatic gem.

Tremont Theatre.

"The Merry Widow" has been running a long time at the Tremont Theatre, but its popularity this week is even greater than when at first opened. The longer it stays in Boston the more devotees it obtains. The music and the acting are of such a high class that very strong adjectives are needed to do them justice. There is infinite variety to "The Merry Widow" from every aspect. Donald Brian and Lina Abarbanell continue in the leading roles.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

"Slaves of the Past,' which was presented at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday as the week's piece de resistance, is a play of the mysterious, far off Orient and takes people who see it to a country which is as strange to Bostonians as dreamland itself would be. American naval officers, Turks and a charming French girl are important characters in the play and the Yankee hero is deprived of State dispatches by a harem queen, who gives him a drugged rose. Charlotte Hunt and H. Clarendon took the leading parts and there were other stock favorites in the cast.

Palace Theatre.

Jean Burns's Casino Girls are at the Palace Theatre this week, opening there yesterday to a crowded and appreciative house and giving the kind of a show which sends a crowd away happy. "Two Pikers" and "A Night in Goldfield" are the names of the burlesque pieces which gave comedians and pretty girls a chance to please. It is an up-to-date show all through. The vaudeville acts were classy and include Annette Wiltsie and her poppy girls in a merry dancing specialty.

Howard.

"Bat" Nelson, the fighting Dane, who made Joe Gans look like a fistic back number, is the chief magnet at the Howard this week. He gives an exhibition of the way in which he prepares for a fistic encounter, and talks to the audience as an incident of his entertainment. Miner's American Burlesquers are also cards and give a show which always gets a rousing hand. There are some good specialty performers with the company and others included in the house bill. In the latter appear Mabel Carew and Maude Dupree, a Dorchester girl, in a singing and dancing turn.

Columbia Theatre.

The burlesque company appearing at the Columbia Theatre this week is known as "The Ducklings," and Miss Louie Dacre is included in the flock. She is a fine vocalist and is fair to look upon. Other charming girls are included in the outfit and for funmakers it offers such crackajack comedians as Patsey Barrett and George O. Clark. Among the specialty acts is a musical one by the Berg family from Berlin. There will be wrestling Wednesday and amateurs on Friday night.

Austin & Stone's.

Captain Jack's Troupe of Performing Seals are a feature at Austin & Stone's this week, and give a remarkable exhibition of animal skill and intelligence. The Manhattan Girls give a stage show and among the individual acts that please is the trapeze work by the LeRoys. There are two stage shows and a curio hall.

Hub Theatre.

The program at the Hub Theatre, where Twentieth Century vaudeville, Miles Brothers' exceptionally fine pictures and illustrated songs are presented, is good this week. The vaudevillians appearing for the first three days are Lenora La Mar, The Roman trio, in travesty, "Damon's Farewell," and Price and Steele in an acrobatic and knockout comedy sketch. Entire change of programme Thursday.

Scenic Temple.

Highly entertaining programs are at the Scenic Temple this week. The motion pictures depict humorous incidents, while others are of a highly instructive character. The singers were in excellent voice and the songs were catchy. In the olio were several numbers. There will be a change of films on Thursday and on Saturday.

Star Theatre.

An extra strong bill is being shown at the Star Theatre this week and the Long Brothers are making a big hit with their coon songs. The motion pictures are exceptionally interesting. "The Mysterious Knight," a beautifully colored Pathe production leaves the audience in a maze of wonderment at the seemingly impossible scenes produced.

Theatre Premier.

The Visocchi brothers, Italian vocalists, whistlers, and instrumentalists, are the headliners in an all-star vaudeville bill at Theatre Premier this week. Other good acts are the talking, singing and shuffling of James Byrnes, the magic feats of Mme. Seky and the acts of Professor Wood and Mlle. Wood.

Theatre Comique.

Victor Mantell, baritone, is the attraction at the Theatre Comique this week. There are new illustrated songs and new motion pictures and a number of fine vaudeville acts. Instrumental selections are given by three skilled musicians.

Pastime Theatre.

At the Pastime Theatre a puzzling exhibition of mental telegraphy by the Mortons is one of the strong features of the bill. Besides this there is a complete new set of motion pictures and some strong vaudeville turns.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Boston Central Labor Union executive committee will hold a special session next Friday night at Wells Memorial building, No. 987 Washington street, to consider several important matters. The Frank K. Foster testimonial fund committee will meet to-morrow night at the C. L. U. office to organize. Alderman James P. Timilty, president of the City Men's Joint District Council, and G. Harry Dunderdale of the Newspaper Writers' Union have been added to this committee.

As the result of activity on the part of Boston Local No. 6 of the Brotherhood of Chandelier Workers of North America the executive board of that body will submit to its affiliated unions a referendum vote on the question of affiliating with the American Federation of Labor. It will require a unanimous vote of the locals to effect the affiliation, it is claimed.

Carpenters No. 58 last night appointed a committee to aid in the naturalization of all carpenters that are not now naturalized, and to see that all members of the Carpenters' unions are registered as voters for every election hereafter. It is the intention of the local to aid other unions in their work along these lines.

Steamfitters No. 23 last night instructed Agent John J. Brophy to represent the local at each Wednesday night session of the grievance committee of the Building Trades section.

John F. Kennedy and John J. Hynes will report to-night at the regular meeting of Sheet Metal Workers No. 17 as delegates to the ninth semi-annual convention of the New England District Council of Sheet Metal Workers, held at Worcester last Sunday, at which John J. Hynes was chosen New England organizer.

General Organizer August Dahlman was the principal speaker at last night's open meeting of Tailors No. 12 at No. 9 Elm street. Mr. Dahlman, who is an aggressive organizer, reported that he had met with encouraging success since his arrival in this vicinity and that he intends to remain until the craft is completely organized.

P. J. Thornton last night reported to Stationary Firemen No. 3 as their delegate to the State Branch convention. The local will hold a smoke talk and educational session at Wells Memorial building November 15.

INSTANT RELIEF FROM ITCH

The Itch Gone, the Skin Soothed and Refreshed—Immediately.

Instant Relief from that itch.

A few drops of a soothing liquid—

And the itch is gone as if by magic.

Can you imagine how it will feel—that itching agony swept away in a moment? Just a drop or two on the skin and no more of that torturing, endless, nerve racking itch.

You can know the relief if you just try the simple remedy—simplest of external liquid remedies—oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

We positively know that it alleviates the itch immediately—we vouch for this and guarantee it—for we have seen it used in too many cases; and the cures that follow, as far as we know, are permanent.

$75,000 LUMBER FIRE IN BANGOR

BANGOR, Oct. 27.—The largest sawmill of Lowell & Engell at East Hampden, two miles below this city, narrowly escaped destruction in a fire which swept the lumber yards, burning more than 2,000,000 feet of prepared pine boards, ready for the market, together with several small structures, with a total damage of about $75,000.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

The success of modern methods is perhaps more clearly defined in the practice of medicine than in any other line of human endeavor.

For instance: Years ago remedies of various kinds were used in treating consumption, and nine-tenths of the patients died. Today little medicine is prescribed and they recover. The doctors have learned that the best way to combat most ills is by the indirect method of stimulating the body's natural power of resistance. Consumption is much easier to prevent than to cure. Neglect of a common cold is often the starting point of this dread disease.

At the first indication of a cold every effort should be made to check it at once. It is claimed that a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whiskey, taken in teaspoonful doses every four hours, will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. Get the ingredients separately and mix them yourself.

This formula has been in use for years. It was the favorite remedy of the old mountaineer, who would macerate the shavings of a pine knot in whiskey. Modern science has combined the active principles of the Pine and Santalwood trees which is known under the name of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure. This preparation is put up for dispensing only in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case, with an engraved wrapper, showing plainly the name and guarantee of the manufacturer, as follows: Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906, Serial No. 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O

FIND LOST GIRL AT RELATIVES'

Sarah Horwitz, the seventeen-year-old deaf and dumb girl, who has been missing from her home at No. 239 Chambers street, West End, since last Saturday, was located to-day at the home of relatives in Roxbury. She started Saturday to visit relatives at Malden, and was expected home the next day. Instead of returning directly home she went out to Roxbury for an additional visit.

Mayor Bars $3 Lunches for Tabulating Clerks

No more $3 "lunches" for the city tabulating clerks on election night.

Mayor Hibbard figures that if the tabulating clerk wants to go out and blow himself for $3 worth of feed that night he is privileged to do so. But he cannot do it on the city of Boston any longer. For the "lunch" game has been worked overtime and the Mayor can't see any reason why the city should stand for it.

Every election night several clerks are needed to stay while the returns come in at night and tabulate the results. These clerks get hungry. But, judging from the cost of these "lunches," they had Hotel Somerset appetites for that time and place only.

The last election night when tabulating clerks lunched on the city it cost $140. It takes about thirty clerks to do the work, but when lunch time came there were fifty men on the job, clerks, near-clerks and individuals who got by for the feed.

Lunches at $2.80 Per.

Even with this sudden increase of clerks at lunch time the bill might have been allowed if it had been reasonable. But $140 for lunch for fifty clerks is too much. That is at the rate of $2.80 per clerk.

Lunch time at these tabulating occasions has been a joyous revel. Some messenger would be detailed to take orders for grub.

One clerk would languidly say: "Well, I don't know. I don't seem to feel hungry. Just slip me a bit of steak, some French fried, a nappy of asparagus and some nice sliced tomatoes. And bring a dish of frozen pudding and some crackers and coffee and a slice of Roquefort. And don't forget half a dozen Manuel Garcias, while you are about it."

And that same clerk had slid out to a quick lunch at noon and figured whether he could do better with a bowl of stew and three slices of bread at fifteen cents or coffee and two pieces of pie for the same money.

Brought in Their Friends.

It was a pretty lonesome clerk, too, who didn't have a friend he could tip off to be around about lunch time and sit in for the feed.

"Good layout, you know, old man; city pays for it."

Now it's all off. Basket lunch, put up at home, will be strictly de rigeur, unless one wants to run around to the all-night places in Newspaper Row and eat with the hard-working newspapermen.

It's tough for the tabulators. At one fell swoop Mayor Hibbard has knocked out half their interest in election.

KILLED FAMILY; COMMITTED SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—Roy Hardy, forty years old, a private detective employed by the Big Four Railroad, last night shot and killed his wife, thirty-eight years old, and his daughter Juanita, twelve years old, and then committed suicide. The tragedy occurred in a boarding house. Just what led to the shooting has not been developed.

CLOSE RACES PROMISED ON SPEEDWAY

Chairman John W. Dorey of the race committee of the Metropolitan Driving Club announces that beginning with today matinee at the Charles River Speedway racing starts promptly at 1:30 o'clock, and that four events will be sandwiched in place of three, as formerly. DO YOU WANT SOME WEALTH that WATER makes in SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ?

IRRIGATION is the MIRACLE of today. It is transforming lands in the Southwest that are worth from $1 to $20 an acre to cash values of from $200 to $500. Water turns barren wastes and sheep pastures into farm lands that yield from $50 to $200 and fruit groves that pay $1000 and more per acre per year. Towns and cities are springing into being wherever the water flows. Place a little money in land, irrigate it and multiply your dollars twenty, fifty and one hundred fold.

IN Southern California, far from blizzards, life is lived at its best in a land of perpetual sunshine, health and happiness. If you have an income of $50 a month you can support a family of four, in comfort and even luxury.

Why?

The garden under sunshine and irrigation produces over half the things you now pay for in the North.

MIRANDY ON THE INTERNATIONAL WEDDING

BY DOROTHY DIX

"I SHO' is sorry fo' dat Miss Elkins, what is gwine to marry dat Eyetalian Duke," observed Mirandy sympathetically. "Yassum, dat po' misguided gal suttinly has got my sympathy, fo' from what I can make out by what Ma'y Jane reads me outen de papers about hit, dat onfortunate young lady ain't jest gwine to marry de man—which is tryin' enough on any female constitution, de Lawd knows—but she is gwine to marry his whole fambly.

"Hit seems dat befo' dat Eyetalian gentleman could really sho' 'nough ax her to be his wife he had to run home and git his cousin's consent, an' de cousin raised about fo' million objections, an' dey kinder called de weddin' off. Den de cousin got reconciled, an' de aunt put in her oar, and de sister-in-law sniffed up her nose, an' even de po' kin had dey say about hit. An' all de time dat gal was a settin' up de sky-line, a-sewin' on her weddin' clothes, but not knowing whether she was gwine to get married or not, and if so, to how many, or whedder dey was male or female.

'De Only Good Catch Is a Orphan'

"'My land,' says I, as I listen to dat po' gal's tribulations, 'dat is what makes me say what I does, an' dat is, dat de only good catch is a orphan. Hit's hard enough to have to try to please you' husband an' stand for his back talk, without havin' to look to his relations an' act humble when dey hands you out a few pussonal remarks about yo' ways, which is wrong on account of not bein' deir ways. An' darfore,' says I, 'dat lady whut is about to espouse in marriage all dem furrin' folks is got my pity.'

"'All de same,' says Ike, 'I sho' does take pride in dat lady an' her pa, for dey is bluffed dem furriners to a standstill. Dey saw dat dey had dat Eyetalian gent on de hook, an' dey jest sot still an' raised him, an' raised him, ontel, when dey opened up de jackpot dere was de title of Princess in hit for de gal.

"'Dat don't surprise me none, doug'1, for I is done played poker wid a West Virginia man myself oncet, an' when we got through all dat I had left was my shut, and one sleeve of dat was gone. Yas, Gord, dey is sports down dat way! An' dey has got deir nerve wid 'em; dey sholy am!'

Has No Relish for Cold Shoulder

"'Well,' spons I, 'ev'ybody to deir taste, specially in husbands; but I bet dat sweet young lady has got a rocky road to travel when she gits over amongst her husband's kin whut don't want her.' Yassum! Ev'ybody to deir tastes; but cold shoulder ain't a kind of vittles for what I is got any relish.

"An' dere ain't nothin' dat women laks to hand out better to a woman whut marries some man in deir fambly aginst deir will. I ain't forgot how Sis Tempy, whose son Bob married Mimy when she wanted him to tie up wid Sairy Sue, used to introduce Mimy round to her old friends. She'd say, 'Dis is my daughter-in-law,' in a tone of voice lak she mought a been a saying, 'Here is a case of leprosy, an', ef you'll take my advice you won't hang around hit none.'

"Anyway, I don't take no stock in dis beah marryin' up wid furriners, nohow. Dere's plenty of things to quarrel over in married life widout adding whut de papers call international complications, an' de folks whut gits along de best is dem whut is got de same taste in pies, an' has been raised up to take de same kind of pills, an' shout in de same church.

It's Macaroni vs. Pork Chops

"To be sociable, a husband an' wife has got to eat off de same plate an' drink of de same cup. Now, dat was de trouble wid Sis' Elviry, dat married de furriner whut had de peanut stand at de corner of de street. Dey had been raised different, an' different dey stayed, an' dey couldn't meet on no common ground, even at de table.

"'Sis Mirandy,' says she to me many a time, 'I ain't got no complaint to make of Michael Angelo, 'cepn' dot I gets dat hongry dat I sometimes things dat my throat is cut, for he thinks dat a few yards of marcaroni is a full meal, whilst I is a honin for porkchops, an' he can't eat widout ev'thing is a-swimmin' in ile, whilst I, bein' brought up in a country where dere warn't no ile but Standard ile, can't abide de sight nor smell of hit; so instid of de dinner table bein' a place of peace an' happiness, as hit ought to be wid us, hit is a battle ground, for I can't eat nothin' he likes, an' he can't eat nothin' I likes.'

"Yassir; I sholy don't know what a gal wants to go away from home for when she starts out to hunt for a husband. Dem men you knows is got tricks enough, goodness knows, to keep you guessin', but how a 'Merican gal keeps up wid a furrin husband is mo' dan I knows.

"Fudermo' hit suttinly must be onhandy when you tries to tell a man dat comes a sneakin' home along towards mawnin', an' dat you has to git up an' find de keyhole for, whut you think of his conduct in a furrin' language.

What a Handicap for a Scold!

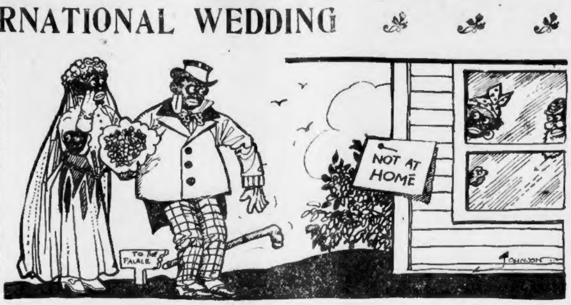
"I suttinly does want my mother tongue when I tackles dat line of conversation, so I won't be hindered none by not knowing whut is de word for a measly, runty, onfeelin' onprincipled brute dat will spend his pay envelope on a Sat'dy night a playin' craps, instid of bringin' hit home to his patient, lovin' wife.

"An', anyway, dere ain't no husband dat is good, an' humble an' housebroke, an' dat knows his place lak a 'Merican husband; an' hit shorely must rile a 'Merican gal, dat has been used to seein' de wife de boss of de house, to marry a furriner an' have to take a back seat, mo' especial when she is ginerally payin' de bills."

"'Dey say dis Eyetalian Duke is rich,' puts in Ike.

"'Maybe so,' spons I, 'but all I hopes is dat dat po, sweet young lady will be able to hold her own wid him.'

"'Don't you worry, ole lady,' says Ike, 'She will hold her own, an' hissen, too. She comes from West Virginia, an' I knows dem West Virginia sports. I done been there.'"



"Dat sweet young lady has got a rocky road to travel amongst her husand's kin whut don't want her"

The Etiquette of Note and Letter Writing

By MARY HUTTON PELL

(Member of the Four Hundred and an authority on all social matters)

IN equipping one's self with suitable stationery for social uses, where one is definitely and permanently settled in one's own home the street address should always be engraved at the top of the page. Formerly script letters were in vogue for this; but later fashions dictate the use of either block, Roman or Old English letterings.

Where the address is not too long it is spelled out in full, as "Eleven Calumet Avenue," or "Nine West Sixteenth Street." But where both the house and street number, when one lives on a numbered rather than a named street, make too long a line, then the house number is in figures and the street spelled out; as "561 West One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street."

Dwellers in the suburbs usually put the town name as well, as "333 Park street, Orange, N. J.," the town name being dropped to the line below the house number.

Where several members of the family use the stationery in common, then the address is all that is needed; but where there is but one to use it, an engraved monogram is often added. Where both address and monogram are used, the monogram goes over to the left-hand corner, and the address occupies either the middle of the page or balances the monogram on the right. But where monogram alone is used, it is usually centred on the page.

Custom dictates just what is or is not correct, good taste being usually the arbiter. Any lettering or engraving that appears on social correspondence paper—it must be borne in mind that this column does not concern itself with commercial standards or usages—must be of neat size and unobtrusive in coloring.

Thus, a white paper has the address done either in a French gray or a medium tint sapphire blue; and one may occasionally see it done in gold or silver; and the same colorings are used for the engraved monogram. Large, splashy-looking monograms are outre, and should never be employed; not too small to be decipherable is all that is needed.

The style in which a note is written, its phrasing and addressing, are all indications of the writer's social knowledge and standing. Formal notes—such as invitations to formal functions, notes addressed to strangers and tradespeople—are always written in the third person. For example:

"Mrs. Bellinger requests the pleasure of Miss Robinson's company at dinner on Tuesday evening, October the twentieth, at eight o'clock."

Where one has a house guest to introduce to friends, then the words: "To meet Mr. and Mrs. Abel Smith Jones" are added.

You respond to formal invitations in the same formal manner:

"Miss Robinson accepts with pleasure Mrs. Bellinger's kind invitation to dinner on Tuesday evening, October the twentieth, at eight o'clock."

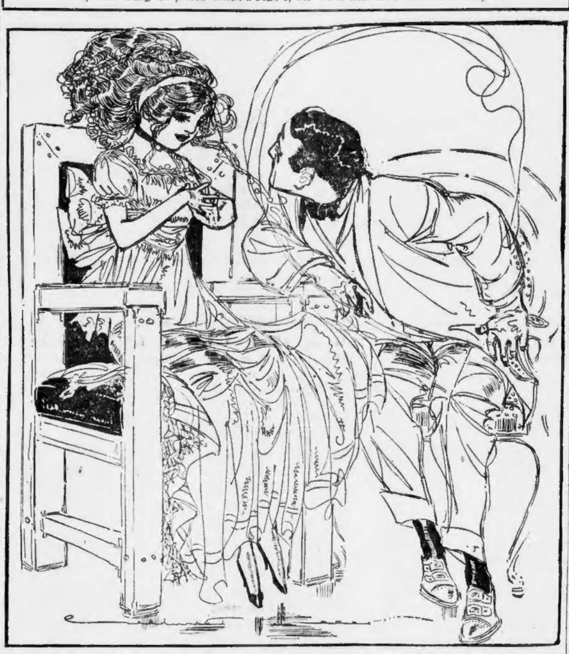
Always repeat the date and the hour so that your hostess will know that you have not misunderstood. Or, if you are unable to accept, then your note should read:

"Miss Robinson regrets that she is unable to accept Mrs. Bellinger's kind invitation for dinner on Tuesday evening, October twentieth."

(Further information regarding correct forms for use in social correspondence will be given in succeeding articles.)

What Kind of a Girl Does a Man Like Best?

The Spinster Lady Surprised When a Man of the World Marries a Demure Country Maid



"A little thing with big, appealing brown eyes and a way of gazing at Frank as if he were lord of the earth"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"WELL," said the Spinster Lady, as she sank into an easy-chair in front of the cheerful fire, "truth is stranger than fiction."

"That's a bromide," said her best friend, without raising her eyes from the book she was engrossed in.

"I know it is, but it's true all the same. If you care to hear the remainder of my reflections, put down your book."

The friend put down her book with a laugh. "Go on," she said, "I'm all attention. Who's in trouble now?"

"No one. I have merely been calling on Frank W—— a new wife."

"What is she like? A brilliant society girl, I suppose."

"My dear, just the opposite. You never saw such a demure little mouse of a girl. She is absolutely opposite from the type you would have expected Frank to choose."

"I should have expected to see a dashing, worldly sort of a girl—a reigning belle."

"So should I, for that is the sort Frank has always seemed to admire most, and he certainly is a man of the world in every sense. One would naturally expect him to place an experienced girl of the world at the head of that big house."

"What does she look like?"

"Like a shy child—a little thing with big, appealing brown eyes and a way of gazing at Frank as though he were the lord of the earth. He is absolutely infatuated with her; cannot keep his eyes off her."

"There is no accounting for the caprices of man," said the friend musingly. "Here is a man who might have married any girl in town, and he chooses a simple little country girl. What is there about her that has won him?"

"I think her great charm is her simplicity. She does not try to impress you as being clever or smart, but talks in a natural, unaffected way about her life in the country. Most of the girls whom Frank knew had an eye to the main chance and knew to a penny what his income was."

"And she is different?"

"Yes; I doubt if she ever gave his money a thought. She is just a sweet, lovable little thing, who will never demand too much of him, but be quite content with the love and devotion he is willing to give. She is the natural born wife and mother type."

"She sounds rather stupid to me."

"Not a bit of it, my dear. She is a wise little woman, and knows her limitations. She does not pretend to be anything but womanly. If you or I could not spell a word, Frank would think us ignorant; but she says she can't spell, and he thinks it too cunning for words. Men are like that when they happen to be in love with the 'baby' type."

The Manicure Lady

She Has Yearnings for a Duke and a Eugenie Lift

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"WELL," sighed the Manicure Lady, "I see that Miss Elkins has Madame Louise rushing on her trousseau. All the seamstresses is working just as hard as they know how. I wish I could get some of them Louises to hustle for me, George. I need a new dress."

"Never mind, kid," said the Head Barber. "You always look swell."

"I can't help minding, George," said the Manicure Lady. "I seen her picture in the paper this morning, and even if it flatters her a little I know I'm just as good looking a girl.

"It makes my heart ache to read about her thirty-two traveling suits, and her Directoire gowns, and her Empires. Just imagine me with that kind of a trousseau! I guess if folks seen me coming along the street with one of them rigs strapped around me, they wouldn't holler: 'Oh, you kid!'

"Why is it, George, that some girls has so much and others has so little?"

"It's the same with men," said the unsympathetic Head Barber. "All I got is one business suit and one for Sunday, and look at Boni de Castalone. He's got all kinds of suits on his hands, Prince Albert suits and civil suits."

"But it don't cost men much to dress," said the Manicure Lady. "A girl can't look swell on three times the money one of your suits costs, and when she does get a good outfit it goes out of style in no time.

To Have a Real Eugenie Lift

"Just think, George, what this Miss Elkins is going to have to wear! The entire outfit is to be a la Empire, with satin and real lace to burn. And just think! She is going to have some of them Eugenie lifts. If I could have a Eugenie lift on my dress I could die happy.

"Eugenie lifts means trains on the front and back of the layout, instead of just on the back. I think that's a grand idea, George."

"I should think it would take a good deal of hand work to keep the fringes out of the mud," remarked the Head Barber. "And just think what a chance one of them double trains would have down around the Flatiron building on a windy day!"

"You don't look at the beautiful side of things," said the Manicure Lady. "You ain't a bit like brother Wilfred. He is just as much enthused over all them pretty gowns as I am. He wrote a poem last night at the dinner table, and read it to all of us. This is how it went:

"'Said Miss Elkins, "Please hurry my trousseau!"
Said Madame Louise, "I shall do so."
"If you don't," sharply cried
The soon-to-be-bride,
"I will then have you pinched, by Caruso!"'"

"That's a good enough poem," admitted the Head Barber, "but I don't see what business it is of Wilfred's. I suppose most poets is more or less lady-like, but trousseaus ought to be out of their line."

She'd Like to Find a Duke

"Anyhow," said the Manicure Lady, "it seems tough that a girl like me has to stand for one suit a year, when a girl that ain't a bit better looking can wear Empires with Eugenie lifts on them and have thirty-two suits to travel in. I wish I could find one of them Duke de Abuzzys.

"Of course, George, getting married don't always mean thirty-two traveling suits, because some of my girl friends has got married with one traveling suit, and then worn the suit out traveling around looking for a job to help support their husband. But just the same, I do have longings when I see all them newspaper articles about swell gowns, and whether they are so or not, I get kind of blue."

"Eugenie lifts wouldn't make you no sweeter," said the Head Barber, gallantly.

"Maybe not," sighed the Manicure Lady. "But I'd like to lift one."

Tomorrow's Best Bargains

Money-Savers for Thrifty Shoppers Selected by an Expert

JUST FOR WEDNESDAY'S selling the Boston Department Store will place on sale about five dozen ladies' gowns that have been selling for $1.25 and mark them 79 cents as a "special" for readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN. These gowns are made chemise style of fine nainsook with deep yoke and circular cut sleeve of solid filet lace, finished with val edging, beading and ribbon. This is a very dainty gown and is certainly a remarkable bargain.

TO-MORROW ON THE THIRD FLOOR of the Jordan Marsh Company store you will find a large assortment of separate wash skirts and waists that will be marked 95 cents each. This lot are mismatched waists and skirts from dresses that were sold for $3.95 up as high as $7.50, all marked to this low price for clearance. Here is an opportunity to purchase a skirt or waist for house wear that is a bargain.

A SMART LITTLE SCHOOL DRESS for the young girl may be found at Filene's to-morrow for $1.95 that are regular $3.50 values. These are cashmere dresses made in two different styles, jumper and one-piece. The jumper dress is made square neck with kimona sleeves, and has panels and pipings of shepherd plaid, and the one-piece style has a "V" yoke of tucked silk and is trimmed with three rows of baby ribbon on waist and girdle. Both styles may be had in red, brown or blue, in sizes from 6 years to 14 years.

AS A SPECIAL HOUGHTON & DUTTON will place on sale for Wednesday several dozen ladies' all wool coat sweaters at $1 that are regular $2 value. These are full fashioned sweaters in Oxford gray with large smoke pearl buttons, and will certainly be found bargains at this price. No mail orders will be filled.

AN EXCELLENT VALUE in a black cheviot tailored suit will be offered to call customers to-morrow at Wolf's "My Clothier," when a lot of their regular $15 models will be marked at $9.98 for one day's selling. This model is made with a semi-fitted coat lined with guaranteed satin, and has a full side plaited skirt with fold at bottom. It is a good practical Winter suit and may be had in all sizes.

IF YOU SHOP AT THE GLEN SHIRT & Collar Co. to-morrow you can purchase sleeping garments for the baby at a reduced price. In their new infants' department one lot of children's night drawers, made of soft knit fleeced material that ordinarily sells for 50 cents, will be offered to readers of the AMERICAN at 38 cents each. These drawers are made with feet and come in sizes from two years to six years. This reduced price is "special" for Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY AT VORENBERG'S clothing house on Washington street a special lot of boys' Winter underwear will be offered at half price. Several dozen shirts and rawers, all Wright's genuine fleeced underwear, that regularly sell for 75 cents, may be had for 38 cents a garment. The sizes run from 4 years to 16 years.

Katie's Age Puzzle Solved

WHEN Katie gave her confusing answer to the Inquisitive Old Party who inquired her age, she must have been ten and one-half years old and her brother Tommy eighteen; for when Tommy was six years older than Katie now is he was sixteen and one-half and she but nine, which is half of his present age. In thirteen and one-half years she will be twenty-four, six years older than Tommy's present age. Tommy will then be thirty-one and one-half and the children's ages combined will then equal their mother's, or fifty-five and one-half years.

Concealed in the words, "I am her stupid sister," we find Katie's birth place—Amherst.

Knights and King

THE knights rode up with gifts for the king.
And one was a jewelled sword,
And one was a suit of golden mail
And one was a golden Word.
He buckled the shining armor on,
And he girt the sword at his side;
But he flung at his feet the golden Word,
And trampled it in his pride.
The armor is pierced with many spears,
And the sword is breaking in twain;
But the Word has risen in storm and fire
To vanquish and to reign.

For the Fashionable Woman's Throat, Swan-Like or Otherwise, the Ruff's the Thing

By MARIE MONTAIGNE

NEVER, since Catherine di Medici and Good Queen Bess were incited to murder by the scratching of the starch of their ruffs, have women appeared in as emphatic neckwear as they are now preparing to don.

This season's neckwear was primarily designed to support the head under its weight of hat, for the stock portion of fancy collars is sturdy and braced with supports of metal, wood, bone and occasionally jewel bars or "slides."

There is art as well as beauty in the novelties in neckwear prepared for this Winter's decorations for the feminine throat.

In all sorts of forms and every sort of width the ruff is the thing. This ruff often takes the form of a neat little pleating or frill of crepe lisle, tulle, net, satin or some flimsy material suitable to rim a stock with. Oftener the ruff springs out from the neck in width capable of burying anything, from cheek outlines to ears and chin.

Did you ever see a blooming face half buried in a filmy ruff of pink, delicately faced with white tulle next the skin? No? Then you have missed a sight prettier than that of an unfolding rose.

Rose color is popular, by the way, with neckwear models. It appears in satin folds mounted upon a foundation and topped with more or less flaring pleats of the daintiest filmy materials. Often broader pleating spreads out below the neck, halfway to the shoulders. Broad, soft ribbon of satin or velvet ties one side of the ruff, and ends of varying lengths are tipped by silken tassels, looped chains of silk covered wooden "olives" or balls, gold or silver tassels, or some other form of finishing a pointed end of ribbon. The ruff is sometimes fastened in the back, or just over one shoulder, but seldom in front.

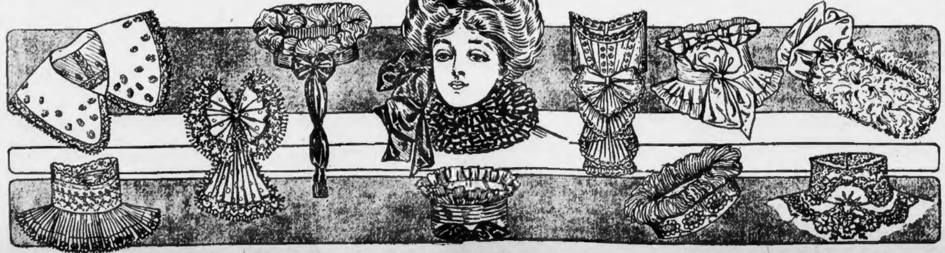
Not every woman can afford to buy these fetching fancies in dress, but the most inexpert can make them. Ruching comes by the yard, in any filmy material and any width desired. A woman has only to buy a piece big enough to go twice around her neck. She can then fold a bit of satin or silk around a stiffened collar form, letting its edges lap over the band of the ruche, which she sews on the top and bottom edges of the form. Then she will make several wide, crushed loops of satin, with short ends, where the ruff joins, and the adornment is complete.

It is modish to spangle black ruches with gold or silver spangles and wear them with black Egyptian scarfs, worked with gold or silver beads, about shoulders or hips.

It is the correct thing in making a ruche of more than ordinary width, to place a pleating or two of white illusion on the inner side, next the neck. This is wonderfully attractive, and prevents the delicate skin of the neck from absorbing any dye.

Here Are Shown the Very Latest Styles in Neckwear for Women

In All Sorts of Forms and Every Range of Width, the Ruff Predominates



Many of these ruffs and neckwear novelties can be made at home by women, if they will follow the suggestions of this illustration

Where to Hear Auerbach Expose Keliher's Record

JUNIUS T. AUERBACH, who is fighting Keliher in the Ninth Congressional District, will discuss his opponent's public record at the following rallies:

Tonight—Roughan Hall, Charlestown.

Tomorrow evening—Wardroom, Ward 3, Bunker Hill and Lexington streets.

Thursday—Town Hall, Winthrop. Stirks Hall, Ward 1.

Friday—Commonwealth Hall, East Boston.

Saturday—Old Franklin School, Ward 9, Washington street, near Dover street.

REPUBLICAN CONTESTS ON FOR ALDERMEN

The Republican nomination papers for the City Primaries which are to be held on November 10 were opened to-day at the offices of the Republican City Committee. Despite the fact that it has been supposed by many that this will not be a good year for Republican candidates for the Board of Aldermen, twenty candidates are seeking nominations for the Board by the Republican voters.

Alderman W. Dudley Cotton and Alderman George W. Anderson, two Republican members of the Board, are unopposed for the nominations in their districts. In the Fifth Aldermanic district, composed of Wards 12 and 17, Alderman Walter Ballantine will be opposed for the nomination by Alfred Ray Mitchell, an athlete and long-distance swimmer of some note.

Four candidates for the nomination have filed their papers in the First District, which consists of East Boston. There is but one candidate in the Second District; one in the Third; none in the Fourth, which consists of Wards 6 and 8; three in the Sixth; two in the Seventh; Alderman Fred J. Brand in the Eight District, Dorchester, is to be opposed by Charles H. Carr.

There are contests in Wards 1, 6, 8, 9, 10, 16, 18, 20 and 21.

Milton C. Paige, former superintendent of public buildings, is the only candidate for street commissioner.

PETERS MAKES CAMPAIGN PLEA

Congressman Andrew J. Peters, Democratic candidate for re-election, has begun his campaign. He had to wait until the last week because he has been a patient in the Faulkner Hospital. He issued a statement to voters in the Eleventh District last night in which he said:

"The people of Massachusetts cry for a genuine revision of the tariff. Free coal, free iron, free lumber, free hides and leather and free wool pulp are essential to the welfare of our manufactures."

SOUVENIR DAY AT FOOD FAIR

To-day is one of the star souvenir days at the Boston Food Fair at the Park Square Coliseum. The first 500 women paying admission receive two valuable souvenirs. One is a copy of the piano score of the latest Sousa march, "The Fairest of the Fair." The other is a coupon ticket representing half the purchase price of a standard $1 article of kitchen use.

To-morrow there will be three free souvenirs, the music score, a package of coffee and another article of food.

Interest increases, as the end of the fair approaches, in the big salt guessing contest, in which 250 prizes are offered.

To-morrow will be Grocers' Day. The members of the Boston Retail Grocers' Association, with their families, will be guests at the exposition.

ADMITS ONE DEATH, HAD PLANNED TWO

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 24.—John Henry, who shot and killed his housekeeper, Mrs. Ellen Fulton, at the Henry residence, 413 Cedar street, waived examination and was held without bail to the District Court.

Earlier in the afternoon the Coroner's jury brought in a verdict finding Henry to be the slayer. Henry freely confessed his guilt and declared that he had intended to kill Ollie Henderson, a negro porter, employed on the Great Northern, and John Brighteyes Reynolds, negro, who is unemployed most of the time.

Ex-Banker Testifies

Financier Wm. J. P. Reynolds Unable to Walk.

Munyon's Rheumatic Remedy Made Him Well

Mr. Wm. J. F. Reynolds, ex-banker and financier, writes. Phila., Oct. 20, 1907. "I was perfectly helpless with rheumatism. I could not walk. I could not stand. My feet, ankles and knees were terribly swollen and I had not known a night's rest for more than a year. I used every available remedy known, with little or no relief. A friend advised Munyon's Rheumatism Remedy and reluctantly I tried it. The first bottle relieved and I purchased another. Before the second bottle had been half used I was absolutely and perfectly cured. I never felt better in my life than I feel now.

"I shall always be but too happy to give a fuller account of what Munyon's wonderful Rheumatic Remedy did for me, and cheerfully invite any sufferer to visit or correspond with me upon the subject."

Wm. J. E. Reynolds,
1313 Arch St.

This testimonial was written nearly a year ago. We wrote to Mr. Reynolds on Oct. 2d, 1908, asking how he was getting on. This is his answer: "I want to say that I have not had the slightest touch of Rheumatism for nearly a year. Your Rheumatism Cure eradicated every particle of Rheumatism from my system. You are at liberty to use my name as reference in any way you please."

If you have stiff or swollen joints, if you have lame or stiff back, if you have sharp, shooting pains in the arms, legs, side, breast, or any part of the body, don't fail to take Munyon's Rheumatism Cure. It contains no salicylic acid, no morphine, no opium, no cocaine. It is absolutely harmless. It neutralizes the uric acid and eliminates all rheumatic poisons from the system. A 25c bottle often makes a complete cure. Get a bottle to-day and if you are not satisfied with the results, I will refund the money.

KELIHER PAID $3,500 FOR HIS NOMINATION

STATE RETURNS ANNOUNCE HE GAVE THIS SUM TO HIS COMMITTEE IN THE NINTH.

Congressman John A. Keliher has filed with the Secretary of State a return showing that he expended $3,500 for a renomination in the Ninth Congressional District. This sum was paid to the treasurer of the Keliher Campaign Committee.

Representative Wilmot B. Evans, Jr., of Everett, who defeated Representative Charles L. Davenport of Malden for the Republican senatorial nomination in the Fourth Middlesex District, expended $1,725, of which $1,400 was paid to his campaign committee. The Republican City Committee of Everett received $125, and the committees in Malden and Melrose $100 each.

Senator J. Lovell Johnson of Fitchburg expended $1,036.68 in securing his nomination for the Executive Council.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS REUNION

The members of the Advanced Class of the Sunday School of the Church of the Sacred Heart, of East Cambridge, one of the oldest organizations connected with this church, will meet in Institute Hall, East Cambridge, to-night for the thirty-fifth annual reunion, reception and dance of the class.

There will be a concert, a reception to the Reverend Father John O'Brien, rector of the church and founder of the class, remarks by leading members of the class and dancing to conclude the festivities. Francis J. Skelley will preside at the exercises and the speakers will include Michael J. O'Connor, Miss Lillian Kenney, Edward A. Connihan, Frank M. Doyle, Mayor Walter C. Wardwell and Father O'Brien.

HEIRS AGREE ON BROWN MILLION

SALEM, Oct. 27.—There will be no contest over the will of John Burnham Brown, who died in Ipswich, October 14, leaving an estate said to be worth more than $1,000,000, the greater amount having been given for the founding and maintenance of an industrial institute in Ipswich.

The settlement is said to be more satisfactory, financially, than the contestants expected.

The contestants were Harry B. Brown, Allen W. Brown and Marietta Perry Martin, brothers and sister of the testator.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS.
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

HOLD GIRL FOR LARCENY ON WEDDING DAY

This was to have been the first day of the honeymoon of Miss Ethel Selwood, aged twenty-two, of No. 206 Main street, Charlestown, but instead she is in a cell in the City square police station, charged with larceny. She was arrested four hours before the time set for her marriage to a jackie attached to the scout cruiser Birmingham, lying at the Charlestown navy yard. Her chum, Alice Adams, twenty-two years of age, of the same address, was also taken into custody on the same charge. The police allege that the two girls stole pictures and napkins valued at $2.40 from the home of Michael Connell at No. 80 Warren street, Charlestown. The girls claim they did not steal the articles but had them given to them.

An hour after the girls had been locked up a jackie in the Birmingham called at the Charlestown station and asked Sergeant Riordan if he could get Miss Selwood out, as they were going to be married at 7 o'clock last night. The Sergeant referred him to a bail commissioner. He returned again and was allowed to talk with Miss Selwood. He departed.

DANVERS ELOPERS WED IN PROVIDENCE

Hector Alfred Germain, aged twenty-four, and Miss Annie Osgood, aged twenty-three, of Danvers, eloped to Providence and were married there yesterday by the Rev. Alexander Mitchell. Miss Osgood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Osgood of No. 296 Locust street, Danvers. Mr. Osgood is a shoe dealer.

FIGHTS SIDEWALK CASE.

Charged with expectoration on the sidewalk at State and Devonshire streets, Ernest Flentje, a wealthy Cambridge manufacturer, appeared before Judge Duff in the Municipal Court and was fined $2. He appealed and gave cash bail of $50. Flentje denied that he is guilty.

MEMORIAL TO HARRISON UNVEILED

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—The monument to the late General Benjamin Harrison was unveiled in University Park this afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Harrison, the thirteen-year-old daughter of the late President, pulled the cord that brought to view the large bronze statue of her illustrious father.

Vice-President Fairbanks and the Hon. John L. Griffith delivered the principal addresses, while General John W. Noble of St. Louis gave a history of the General's war record. A half-holiday had been declared by the Mayor, and thousands of citizens and school children made a congregation which jammed all available space in the vicinity of the park. A parade of civic and military organizations preceded the ceremonies.

FILIPINO TYPHOON'S DEATH ROLL IS 800

MANILA, Oct. 27.—Official dispatches received from the sections visited by the typhoon and resultant floods that devastated Caygan Province recently place the death roll at 800 and the damage of property at $1,000,000 gold.

A Warning About Evaporated Milk

If you can't get Van Camp's Milk at your store, ask your grocer to get it. Don't take some other brand and think it is like Van Camp's.

All Evaporated Milk looks alike and tastes much alike. But there is a difference. And the difference in quality makes a vast difference in the manufacturer's cost and his profits. This is important to you.

The difference is in the richness, for after purity, richness controls the value of milk.

The manufacturer of some other brand may have told your grocer his brand is as rich as Van Camp's. But is it so?

Why Quality is Reduced

Just now the United States laws don't protect you and your grocer against weak, Evaporated Milk, because the standard has been relaxed. The law is not enforced. There is much competition and great temptation to reduce the quality so the wholesale price can be reduced.

Van Camp's Milk has not been reduced in price (your grocer will tell you that) and we positively guarantee you the quality has not and will not be reduced.

Quality is what you must have and we know it is wise to give it to you. So quality is what you can depend upon in Van Camp's Milk.

How Quality is Reduced

It is just a question of evaporation. One-third of the water of raw milk can be taken out by evaporation, or twice as much water can be taken out. The resulting product of both processes will look and taste much alike.

But stop and think of the difference in cost. Realize how it will be when you come to dilute the milk for use.

Is it not perfectly plain why some brands of milk are urged on you by manufacturers as "Just as good as Van Camp's"? Don't take some other brand and think it is like Van Camp's Evaporated Milk.

Not "Condensed Milk"

One should not confuse Van Camp's with "condensed milk." "Condensed Milk," by weight, is about half milk and half sugar—the sugar being used to preserve it. One can't use "condensed milk" for cooking.

Van Camp's is nothing but milk—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. The preserving is done by sterilization.

Therefore, Van Camp's serves every purpose of raw milk and cream. It is the ideal milk for cooking. It gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which you never get from raw milk.

Another fact is that Van Camp's Milk is sanitary. Our cows are inspected; so are the men who milk them. There is no chance of infection. Our dairies are sanitary. The buildings where our milk is evaporated are built without wood. You know that Van Camp's is safe.

You can judge from these facts, in buying milk, how to get the most for your money.

Get the Milk with this label and you will get it right—

To-morrow a group picture of the Mechanic Arts Football Team will be printed.

QUILL AND LOUGHREY WILL CLASH TONIGHT

Will Tommy Quill's fighting career get a bump to-night is the question the local fans are asking. He takes on one of the toughest propositions in the ring at the Armory Club to-night in Young Loughrey, the Quaker slugger, who recently beat Young Erne in his own town and now stands at the head of his class in Quakerville.

The Quaker fighters have proved Quill's hardest opponents, but since he has decided to become the welterweight champion he does not intend to stop at anything and will take them in a row.

Quill has proved the best card at the Armory Club because he always gave the members an exhibition of boxing which they could thrill over and that's what they want.

Under the mangership of Johnny Mooney, who put the welter title in the grasp of Honey Mellody, he should soar upwards and get some national reputation, which he deserves.

The twelve rounds will be productive of about the most sizzling action seen in the local arena for many days.

Another battle on the all-star card is the hook-up between Bill Warren, the new colored phenom from Australia, and Jim Prendegast, the heavies who are also seeking fame. The latter made some of the locals sidestep after he knocked Billy Payne out in a punch at Chelsea.

The Twin Miller-Willie Reilly bout has its attractions also. Miller, according to Bill Carney, the expert who always has some good ones in his stable, is a comer and has been making a record for knockouts.

GILMORE WANTS PROPER FORFEITS POSTED
M'FARLAND-MURPHY GO IN AIR

BY TAD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Harry Gilmore, manager of Packy McFarland, declares that the Murphy-McFarland go is not assured as yet, and further states that the go will not come off unless proper forfeits are put up.

"Murphy got sick twice on us before, and I'm not taking chances on his malaria again," piped the Windy City manager.

"He called our go in Indianapolis off, and one later in Boston off. If he will put up $500 as a guarantee the go is as good as made.

"Mr. Buckley will have to put up $1,000 to insure his holding the bout, and if these sums are not put up you can take it from me there will be no fight.

"I'd like to have all the local clubs bid for the match. We're in the game for money, and if Billy Gleason or Johnny White make better inducements than Buckley I'll have to scratch my head a bit before I sign up.

"Packy and I will probably take a run up the State early and rest up for a few days. It's much better than hanging around the city, you know. Packy has a girl out in Davenport, Iowa, who is strong for him, and if he leaves the city Pack is afraid a few of the letters might go astray. Oh, I'll kid him out of it, though.

"Nelson forty-five rounds? No, I don't think that's necessary. Twenty-five rounds, with a decision, ought to be long enough. Mac never went forty-five, and I don't know how he'd go in that distance. I know that the kid can go twenty-five, and if he can't beat Nelson in that time I'll be satisfied to pass up the job.

"I had a letter from a Chicago writer in which he stated that Nelson said before leaving that he wouldn't box Packy twenty-five rounds, as he thought it too dangerous. He admits that Packy might outbox him in that distance. See! We'll get him, though, if I have to wait a year and go to a finish."

* * *

Jim Driscoll, the English featherweight champion, is not a very superstitious lad. He is training for his go with Matty Baldwin up at Tuckahoe, where Pedlar Palmer, the other English champ, was knocked out by Terry McGovern in one round.

Billy Gibson was up to see Jim and thinks he's as fine a piece of fighting machinery as he has laid eyes on in moons.

"This fellow not only boxes like a marvel, but he hurts with every punch," said Billy last night in talking over his visit.

"He has Eddie Johnson up there with him, and, honestly, Johnson can't muss his hair. I don't think I ever saw such a fighter as this boy. No wonder he beat Joe Bowker and Harry Griffin. I thought he was like the rest of these Englishmen, with that stiff pose and machine-like fighting, but he's entirely different.

"Why, a fellow uptown bet $50 against $100 that he knocks Baldwin out before the limit. I think it's a pretty stiff bet myself. You know what a fighter Baldwin is, but it's just the way these Englishmen think about him."

A sport writes me, asking why Packy McFarland doesn't take on Young Otto. In part he says:

"I se that you say Packy beat Cross by keeping him on his heels. Well, this boy Otto can hit if he is on his ear. What do you think of that? None of these so-called first class fighters will take Otto on. He has to bump up against the tough ones to get a go at all. I'd like very much to see him against Cross or McFarland this Winter."

MATTY TO RETIRE IF SALARY ISN'T BOOSTED

By Sam Crane.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The baseball season of 1908 is a thing of the past by hardly three weeks, still several players have come out with their annual statement that the game has seen the last of them. It is a little early for the "Patti gag," but Kling is already out with the threat of retirement, and several of his fellow Cubs say they wouldn't be surprised if "Johnny" gave all his attention hereafter to his big-paying billiard hall in Kansas City.

Evers is said to have business interests in Troy that he thinks he should attend to the year round instead of devoting the Summer months to baseball. There are several other Cubs who have also got visions of accumulating wealth through other channels than the national game.

It is a peculiar fact that most of the players who anually startle the baseball public by threats of retirement are members of teams that have won pennants the season previously. It will be remembered that after the Giants won the National League pennant and the world's championship in 1905, Bresnahan, Bowerman and Donlin all claimed it was their last year in baseball. It will also be noticed that they are playing yet and bid fair to continue as stars for several years to come.

Very few professional ball players quit their favorite game until they are obliged to, and no one can blame them for sticking to their chosen profession as long as any club will give them a job. There is an attraction to the sport that is simply irresistible to one who has played it well and has belonged to clubs that usually finish high up.

Would the New York club let Christy Mathewson get away if that great pitcher made a decided stand for an increase in salary? If it did, the club would be make ing a very foolish break, would it not?

Well, that is the proposition that the New York club will be called on to face when the time comes for Matty to sign his next contract with the club.

Mathewson will have a perfect right to demand an increase of salary, and one, too, that will call for double what he got from the New York club in salary last season and for several seasons past.

Mathewson's contract with the New York club called for a salary of $4,000 for the season of 1908. Now, doesn't that sound ridiculous considering the salaries that star pitchers of Mathewson's class are thought to receive, and the financial success that attached to baseball during the season's phenomenal race?

The announcement of Mathewson's salary will come as a big surprise to baseball fandom the country over.

It seems ridiculously small, too, when the fact is taken into consideration that Matty has been the star pitcher of the country ever since he became a Giant with the exception of 1906, the year he had not fully recovered from the effects of an attack of diphtheria.

Christy Mathewson has made more money for the National League than any pitcher who was ever in its ranks. He virtually saved the life of the National League, too, when the older organization was almost in a state of disruption, at the time the American League secured so many of its star players.

It may have been Matty's fault that he has not been receiving bigger salaries and doubtless he signed his contracts with his eyes wide open, but that does not disguise the fact that, according to his ability as compared with other box artists, he has been underpaid.

He has his eyes opened now, at last, however, and, like Hans Wagner, will make a demand that his next contract will call for much more than $4,000 per.

And what is more, he will refuse to sign until his terms are acceded to. His relations with the club and Manager McGraw are very cordial at the present time.

JACKSON FOR ATHLETICS.

Joe Jackson, the Southern "fence breaker," is going to get another chance to play with the Athletics. It looked for a time as if Joe had been cast adrift for good by Manager Mack, but the latter has decided to give the youngster an opportunity to prove that he is repentant. So the boy who startled the baseball world with his stick work last season in a minor league will have a chance to prove that the major league twirlers are just as easy for him.

BAT NELSON MAKES HIT IN STAGE BOUT

Battling Nelson is the big noise in the Hub just now, judging by his welcome at the Howard when he began his week's engagement yesterday, as there was an uproar as soon as the Dane made his appearance on the boards in front of the delighted fans till he bowed himself out after numerous encores.

Just a glimpse of the lightweight champion in ring attire looking the same as on those eventful days, July 4 and September 9, when he satisfied all critics that he was the real champion by defeating the Old Master, Joe Gans, was sufficient for a burst of enthusiasm.

Bat liked the ovation he received and made a hit right off the reel, giving a vigorous exhibition of the way he put Gans down and out.

He gets into action in a boxing sketch and, after finding his breath, waded in with a few vocal wallops, much to the glee of the throng who hung on every word he uttered. Bat said he fought Gans twice and licked him inside a few months just to prove beyond question that his winning the championship was on the level.

YEAR-OLD FILLY PACES QUARTER IN 30 1-4 SECS.

The fastest public quarter this year to the credit of a yearling pacing filly was the one recently stepped by Allendale Queen, by Baron Dillon 2:12, for trainer Billy Freeman at Lexington. This little miss did one in 30¼ seconds.

She was owned by Jere L. Tarlton, proprietor of Allendale Farm, Lexington, but after her trial was sold to George H. Estabrook, of Denver, for $1,500. Mr. Estabrook is to pay an additional $500 if she paces in 2:10 in her three-year-old form.

Barytes, a yearling trotter by Baron Dillon, owned by Mr. Tarlton, has worked a quarter in thirty-four seconds. The yearling colt by Baron Dillon, out of Fanny Summers, 2, 2:26½ (dam of Fanny Lawson), has trotted a quarter in forty seconds. He has won a lot of prizes in the show ring and has not been worked hard.

LONDON IS A BOXING MECCA

Rouse O'Brien, the Boston lightweight, who has been putting up some good bouts around the Eastern cities for the past two years, has shaken the dust of America from his feet and hied himself to England, where he is after some of the British coin, which Jimmy Britt is also trying to gather in.

Rouse said nothing to anyone, but made a quiet sneak and bobbed up in London just at a time when Johnny Somers and Jimmy Britt were signing articles for a match, November 9. Rouse inspired the Britishers with his ability and succeeded in matching himself with Johnny Somers for November 23, two weeks after the Somers-Britt contest.

Should McFarland and Nelson go abroad, as they threaten to do, it will make quite a colony of American boxers in dear old London.

RED BOW GETS STATE RECORD

The mile in 2:06¼, over the Parsons, Kan., half-mile track, by Red Bow, is the Kansas State record for pacers in a race over a two-lap course, displacing the former record of 2:09¼. The latter was set by Dr. Pipes in the third heat of a winning race on August 14 this year, and the new record by a gilb little mare Red Bow was also the third in a winning heat.

Red Bow paced the Manitowoc, Wis., half-mile track in 2:06¾ late last August, which was also the third heat in a winning race. Her record over a mile track is 2:04¼, made at Detroit this year, and at Kalamazoo she was a close second in 2:03¼.

BOTHNER WILL MEET WILLIAMS

George Bothner of New York, who claims to be the real lightweight wrestling champion, will have a chance to prove his worth at the Columbia to-morrow night, when he faces Bartley Williams, one of the scrappiest youngsters in the game, and one who will make Bothner exert himself to the utmost to win. Williams has been heralded as the best of the younger wrestlers in the West, and his visit East has been one succession of victories. He comes to Boston fully determined to add Bothner's scalp to his belt, and will be ready for any game the champion puts up. Williams is an aggressive youngster, and loves an exciting bout, and Bothner is certainly there with the goods if excitement is what Williams is after.

HORSE NEWS
TRACK GOSSIP

It looks as though Solly Wolfson has got a right good speedway mare in Annie Lee (2:07¼).

The McKinney stallion Carlokin (2:08¾) is credited with a trial mile in 2:05½ over the Lexington track.

Lon McDonald will spend some weeks at the Indianapolis track prior to going South for the Winter.

W. W. Evans's three-year-old colt Henry Setzer, by Todd (2:14¾), was driven a mile in 2:08¾ over the Lexington track.

Boston horsemen are already talking about snow path racing. They are predicting a cold Winter and a lot of snow.

The Walnut Hall cup comes to New England, and many friends of Charles Sanders are interested to know how much it holds.

The turf writer who says that Sir Walter, Jr. (2:18¾) never sired anything of an account ought to look up the races of Aldalla (2:10¾).

George Gano gathered in $5,255 without getting out of the 2:18 class.

Nahma (2:07¾) has been one of the disappointments of the year.

Lucius Todd (2:19¾) is by Actonward, out of the dam of Kruger (2:04).

Bob Brewley won eight of the twelve races at the late Norfolk (Va.) meeting.

J. M. E. Morrill has sold the Bingen mare Helvetia (2:20) to John Fleming.

Peter the Great (2:07¼) has put eighteen new ones into the standard list this season.

Charleston Boy (2:09¼) is said to be one of the real good Argot Wilkes pacers.

Historic Glenville has passed. Over it Maud S. trotted that memorable mile in 2:08¾.

That grandly bred mare Ecstatic (2:01¼) ought to be eagerly sought by breeders when she is led into the sale ring at Madison Square Garden.

J. M. Johnson says that Frank Hall's yearling filly, by Todd (2:14¾), and out of Belgrade (2:16¼), is one of the best youngsters that he has ever seen.

Fred Bellows will go to the New York sale next month prepared to bring home something in the way of speed that will keep the boys guessing on the snow path this Winter.

The three-year-old colt Silver Baron (trial 2:08¾) looks to be one of the best prospects in sight for next year's slow trotting stakes.

Bob Proctor will have a stable full of Bingens next Spring, and he wants them, too.

Hamburg Belle (2:04¾) is enjoying a run in a blue grass paddock at Hamburg place.

The 2:10 list for trotters has had forty-four additions since the opening of the racing season.

Dick Wilson's horse, The Butcher Boy (2:10¼), has adde five performers to his 2:30 list.

SPORTING NEWS IN BRIEF.

BOXING.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 27.—Bartley Connolly of this city and Billy McKinnon of Boston fought six fast rounds at the Pastime A. C. The first three rounds were an even break. Connolly had much the better of the last three. Prior to the boxing Bob Somerville of Bath, Me., met Jack Sullivan of Lawrence. Somerville agreed to throw Sullivan twice in an hour, but failed, only securing one in 34 minutes and 20 seconds.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 27.—Jack Morgan of Indianapolis finished Kid Lee of California in the ninth round of their bout here before the Champion Athletic Club.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Tommy Sullivan of Lawrence, Mass., knocked out Tommy Crawford of San Francisco in the fifth round at the West End Club.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 27.—In one of the fastest and cleanest fights witnessed in Pittsburg in a long time, Mickey Gannon of Greensburg, Pa., and Fighting Dick Nelson of New York went six rounds to a draw. Nelson did nearly all the leading, but his blows to the face and head did not have much effect.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27.—Johnny Marto of New York and Dave Deshler battled ten rounds to a draw here before the Russell A. C. Marto was easily the stronger man, but Deshler continually carried the fight to him with left jabs and swings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—In the main bout at the Roman A. C. Young Otto outpointed Young Erne of Philadelphia. The Manhattan in Harlem and the Bedford in Brooklyn did not attempt to hold their scheduled fights, and at the Bay Ridge A. C. the police stopped the bouts.

SALEM, Oct. 27.—At the Young Men's Athletic Club the bouts resulted as follows: Four-round draw between Matty Baldwin, Jr., of Charlestown and Young Lynch of Boston. Draw, six rounds between Young Kelly of Boston and Young Benson of Lynn. Dennis Ryan of Cambridge and Young Manard of Lynn draw. Young Nixon of Boston knocked out Young Lebreau of Lynn in the first round. Curly Williams of Lynn and Dick Slater of Boston draw.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROLLER POLO RESULTS: At Worcester—Worcester, 8; Brockton, 3. At Fall River—Fall River, 10; Salem, 4. At Providence—Pawtucket, 7; Providence, 5. At Bridgeport—Bridgeport, 8; New Britain, 5. At New Haven—Hartford, 5; New Haven, 3.

WALTHAM High School is to have a new athletic field. An option has been secured on a big plot of land bounded by Lexington and Bacon streets in the northerly section of the city. The present playgrounds are considered inadequate. The athletic association will make an effort to get the new field in condition for football next Fall.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Connecticut Baseball League the old officers were re-elected as follows: W. J. Tracy of Bristol, Conn., president; A. E. Taylor of Chicopee, vice-president; James H. O'Rourke of Bridgeport, Conn., secretary and treasurer; John E. Kennedy of Bristol, Conn., supervisor of umpires.

BECAUSE of a conflict with the New England cross country championship, the new Brookline Gymnasium Athletic Association has decided to change the date of its ten-mile race from Thanksgiving Day to the preceding Saturday afternoon, November 21.

IN the class B tournament at the Hub Raffaele defeated Narraw, 200 to 196. Raffaele had a high run of 24. To-night Franklin will play Carlos.

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 27.—Cy Young, Boston Red Sox pitcher, to-day ordered the erection and furnishing of an entire room in the New Union Hospital, being built between this city and New Philadelphia, at his expense. It will be known as the Cy Young room.

FOOTBALL.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 27.—Frank Hinkey, one of Yale's most famous football players, who was twice captain of varsity elevens, has commenced his work as coach of the Yale squad. Mersereau, a very promising candidate for the position, who was end on the freshman team last year, was put in at left end and played for about three-quarters of an hour. He was coming along very nicely when he sprained his ankle and was retired from the game.

AT A MEETING of the captains and managers of the class football teams at Harvard the schedule for the class series was arranged as follows: November 13, 1909 vs. 1910; November 16, 1911 vs. 1912; November 18, the winners of the above two games play for the class championship.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 27.—Captain George F. Kennedy of the Dartmouth team was injured for the second time this season. He sustained an injury to his right ankle, which will keep him out of the Amherst game next Saturday.

ERNEST GRAVES, former West Point captain and tackle, will join the Crimson corps of coaches to-day for a stay of indefinite length. Graves coached the line at Cambridge for a little while last Fall, but was unable to stay long. The work of the varsity team at Harvard was very light and short on account of the downpour that greeted them as soon as they had reached the field almost. Cutler was the only one of the players who played in the Navy game Saturday that reported, the others being given a rest.

AMHERST, Oct. 27.—Amherst started in dead earnest to prepare for the game Saturday against Dartmouth. Secret practice was the order and the men were worked hard in signal drill, no scrimmage being held. The offence is the weakest point of the team, and this the coaches are attempting to improve. Coach Hubbard feels that the Amherst defence will compare favorably with that of Dartmouth, but his idea now is to drill the men to score.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 27.—Brown football coaches are doing their best to get the team fit for Harvard Saturday. Though Brown's front line showed considerable improvement in the game against Lafayette Saturday, the eleven's weakness in ends more than balanced it, and as much of the practice as possible will be employed in strengthening the ends, as well as in stiffening up the line. Upon her ends and her line and upon McKay's punting and Captain Mayhew's ability as a quarter depend Brown's hopes of defeating Harvard.

PIANOS AND ORGANS. PIANOS AND ORGANS.

WOMEN ARE THE SHREWDEST PIANO BUYERS

We find that women do the most investigating, the most looking around. They are better bargain hunters than men, and in most cases are better judges of bargain values—But when they get up here and see the piano bargains on our sacrifice floor they have sense enough to go no further—They have never in all their lives seen such reckless cutting of prices as they see in our fight with the Piano Trust—It's seldom that you can't save from $100 to $150 on any of the standard makes up here, and women who call know it—because they have looked around and they know.

WE WILL PAY SPOT CASH FOR PIANOS ANYWHERE TRUST PIANOS PREFERRED

$5 Down—$1 a Week The gilded piano stores, with their costly appointments, their high-salaried sales agents, their sellers' commissions, etc., are no place for the economical piano buyer to go. Take the trouble to look around a little, go up where the rents are not so high and buy your piano right.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST. BOSTON, OCTOBER 27, 1908

WHAT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING MEANS

The Smart Little Prophets Will Have to Revise Their Guesses Again This Year

When three thousand serious minded men and women leave their homes in the height of a drenching rain and go to a public hall—as they did last night in Boston—to listen to the candidates of a NEW PARTY, it means something.

No such meeting has been held in Boston this year by either of the old parties. The worst storm of the season could not stop the enthusiastic, cheering, earnest citizens who went to Tremont Temple last night to greet Mr. Hisgen and Mr. Osgood.

The thousands who went in spite of the storm, the enthusiasm, the SERIOUSNESS, all mean that the little-minded prophets who seek to ignore the Independence Party, or to turn it aside with a sneer, are just as blind to real conditions and JUST AS FOOLISH as they were last year.

When they woke up the morning after the last State election and read that the Independence League had polled more votes than the Democratic party, they at first refused to believe it. THEN they tried to explain it. They said it was due to a split in the Democratic party, just as the year before they had tried to explain away the big vote for John B. Moran on the League ticket.

Well, last night's meeting in Tremont Temple means that the poor little critics WILL HAVE TO DO SOME MORE EXPLAINING THIS YEAR.

You May Make Your Own Rules

But You Must Not Be Permitted to Enforce Them, says the Supreme Court

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided:

That workingmen have a right to form unions.

That these unions have a right to make rules.

That they have a right to order strikes for higher wages or shorter hours.

But

They must not enforce their rules in case of a strike.

That is to say, the unions have a rule fining a man for failing to obey their orders. But if there is a strike and he fails to obey the order to strike, THEN THEY HAVE NO RIGHT TO FINE HIM.

In other words, a union may enforce its rules at any time except when it NEEDS to enforce them.

We are glad to say that two members of the Supreme Court, including the chief justice, did not agree with this decision by the majority of the court. These two judges have filed a dissenting opinion, in which they quote from a decision by Judge Taft, to the effect that the officers of a labor union have a right to expel any member for failure to obey an order to strike.

The two Massachusetts judges who believe that labor unions have a right to make and enforce their own rules, then, find:

> The law does not do so vain a thing as to allow the formation of labor unions and to declare their right to initiate and by lawful means to carry on a justifiable strike, and then refuse them the use of the only practical means by which their acknowledged rights may be secured.

Chief Justice Knowlton and Judge Loring are a minority in the Supreme Court, and, therefore, it is now illegal in Massachusetts for a labor union, in case of a strike, to enforce its own orders in the only practical way by which it CAN enforce orders.

Workingmen of Massachusetts should be glad that this decision is rendered just before a State election. Does any workingman doubt how a judge appointed by Eben S. Draper, of Hopedale, would act in a matter of this kind?

No man who belongs to a labor union is permitted to live in the town Mr. Draper owns. You may be sure that Mr. Draper would know exactly how any lawyer stands on this question on the rights of labor unions before he would appoint him to the Bench.

The workingmen of Massachusetts are fortunate in having an opportunity to vote for a candidate for Governor who, years ago, BY HIS OFFICIAL ACTS, showed exactly where he stands on this question of the rights of workingmen to form unions and to enforce their own orders.

William N. Osgood, when he made the minority report of the Committee on Relations Between Employer and Employe, in 1904, presented a bill commonly known as the "peaceful picketing" bill, which, if enacted into law at that time, WOULD HAVE MADE IMPOSSIBLE ANY SUCH DECISION AS THAT RENDERED YESTERDAY BY THE STATE SUPREME COURT.

Let the workingmen stand together and vote UNITEDLY for the man who presented this "peaceful picketing" bill to the Legislature in 1904; then no more judges will be found rendering a decision that labor unions have no right to enforce their own orders.

The True Philanthropist

By James J. Montague

WE wondered how Senator Sheckles had got all his honors and fame,
And had forged right ahead with a seven-league tread in the nation's political game.
His straightness was that of the rainbow; he lacked both in sense and in sand;
That his light-fingered trail didn't lead into jail was a thing we did not understand.
But now we have found out the reason—in the days when his income was slim
The kindly, benevolent Archbold took a fatherly int'rest in him.

WE wondered how Judge Hanck-Desizion could be a profound legal star,
And rise to a height where his power and might were honored by bench and by bar;
His legal attainments were youthful, although all his honors were old,
And justice and he always happened to be on terms very distant and cold,
But though none believed he was able, or brilliant, or worthy, or wise,
The kindly, benevolent Archbold assisted him nobly to rise.

SO, child, if you hope to win power, or gain its equivalent, pelf,
Don't fancy you can go to work like a man and land what you're after yourself.
Just try to get Archbold's attention; do what he would like you to do,
And maybe he'll take up your in'trests and make a judge or a statesman of you.
And if this philanthropist helps you as he has helped others in need—
If you keep out of jail—why you hardly can fail in your laudable hope to succeed.

"Don't Throw Away Your Votes"

That's RIGHT. Cast Them for a Man Who STANDS FOR THE THING YOU BELIEVE IN

We hope workingmen will not be fooled this year by the selfish cry of politicians of the corrupt old parties, "Do not throw away your votes."

The surest way to throw away your vote is to vote for a lightweight, with no possible chance of election, who happens to have the label of a dying and corrupt party attached to his name.

The same cry, "Do not throw away your votes," was raised in this State last year to bring about the election of Henry M. Whitney, the most notorious corporation lobbyist in Massachusetts. When the votes were counted, the party that nominated Mr. Whitney ranked third in the number of votes cast.

The men who threw away their votes, then, were the ones who voted for Whitney.

We hope no workingman will make such a mistake this year.

If all members of labor unions will vote for William N. Osgood, the man who had the nerve to stand out against the rest of his committee in favor of a bill giving labor unions the right to make and enforce their own orders, there will be no more decisions like the one rendered yesterday.

Archbold Tries to Defend Himself; Hearst Replies

William Randolph Hearst last Saturday made public letters written by John D. Archbold, showing that the Standard Oil Company had applied for the appointment of two men to the bench in Pennsylvania, and that the company had sent $15,000 to Attorney-General John P. Elkin of Pennsylvania with the request that certain legislation be killed. The two men whom Archbold wanted placed on the bench have since been made judges of the Superior Court. John P. Elkin, who while Attorney-General received $15,000 from Archbold, has since become a justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

John D. Archbold to-day makes the following statement regarding this latest evidence of Standard Oil corruption:

The Archbold Statement.

"I am very sure that until Hearst read the letters neither Judge Morrison nor Judge Henderson had any knowledge of my having written Governor Stone in their behalf. Judge Henderson was not appointed by Governor Stone to the Supreme Court, but was three years later appointed by Governor Pennypacker to a Superior Court judgeship. If, however, any feeble word of mine would have influenced in the slightest degree the selection of these gentlemen for their respective positions, I would feel proud of it. Their State has had no better servants than they, and I certainly have never asked of them any favor of any kind, either for myself or for the company with which I am connected.

"My letters to General Elkin, referring to accompanying drafts, related entirely to contributions to the Republican State Committee, then engaged in the campaign preliminary to the renomination of Mr. McKinley, a subject regarding which I think Hearst would be a little sensitive, for was it not the election and tragic death of Mr. McKinley that came near costing Hearst his precious neck?

"The statement regarding Judge Haight is in connection with an old libel that has been explained and exploded so many times that it would be a simple weariness to the public to go over it again.

"The intimation by Hearst that he has had any communication from me or from any of my associates in connection with the stolen letters is a lie.

"The only favor which I would ask, or hope ever to ask, of Hearst, is that he return to me the letters handed him by his larcenous 'gentleman friend,' which were written from Japan relating to the fatal illness of my daughter in that country."

Mr. Hearst to-day makes the following reply to Mr. Archbold:

Mr. Hearst's Reply.

Mr. Archbold takes refuge in the usual defence of the caught and cornered crook, and utters abuse when what is needed is an explanation and a confession—a conviction and a penalty.

As I have said before, the Standard Oil Company pays its honest debts by check, and when it has recourse to the certificate of deposit it is because there is a dishonest debt to be paid that even the shameless Mr. Archbold is ashamed to expose to the light of day.

All the lies that have been told relative to these shocking disclosures have been told by the guilty senders and the secret receivers of those tainted Standard Oil dollars. Mr. Foraker said that he had been sent his secret certificates of deposit for legal fees in connection with Ohio State legislation, and thereupon I produced a letter from Mr. Archbold asking Senator Foraker to kill a United States Senate bill introduced by Senator Jones of Arkansas. Who lied there, Mr. Archbold? Mr. Archbold says now that he sent his secret certificates of deposit to Mr. Elkin, then Attorney-General, now Supreme Court Justice, as campaign contributions. A liar should have a better memory. Along with the very letters enclosing the fifteen thousand dollars of secret certificates sent to Mr. Elkin was a letter asking him to kill an amendment to a bill with no other explanation than "for reasons which seem potent to us."

Who is lying, there, Mr. Archbold?

Either deny your letters or admit your letters. If you deny them I will produce the fac-similes. If you admit them, you are convicted by your own written words.

I am glad you repeat that McKinley falsehood, Mr. Archbold, because you are a fair example of the exposed and discredited rascal who usually repeats it. You did contribute to Mr. McKinley's campaign, but you did not contribute through Mr. Elkin. You contributed through Mr. Hanna, and I have the letter to prove that. You may tell the public, if you please, how much you contributed to Mr. Hanna, and for what purposes. You may tell the public how much you contributed in this campaign and for what purposes. But do not lie, Mr. Archbold. Remember, I have the documents to convict you.

Mr. Archbold finally takes refuge in the usual defence of the caught and cornered coward. He hides behind the skirts of the innocent women of his family.

I have not mentioned Mr. Archbold's daughter, and never would have thought of dragging her name into this controversy. Why should Mr. Archbold do this despicable thing? I have no letters from his daughter. I have never heard of any letters from his daughter. I did not know he had a daughter until he, in his contemptible cowardice, dragged her into publicity to shield himself.

Shame upon you Mr. Archbold. Stand out in the open by yourself and receive for yourself, who are alone guilty, the public execration which you deserve.

WM. RANDOLPH HEARST.

The Springfield Republican, commenting yesterday on the letters made public by Mr. Hearst, said:

> These are sickening disclosures, and in line with what have before come out affecting other public officials. The Standard Oil monopoly is here revealed as in practical control of the government of Pennsylvania, naming the judges to be appointed and the bills to be enacted or killed, and having apparently in its employ the chief law officer of the State. Other letters in this published Archbold correspondence have shown the company as reaching out with the "broad and greasy hand of boodle" to control newspapers, the law-making bodies of States and the nation, the judiciary and the executive authority—a mighty engine for governmental corruption to the end of placing the people of the United States under still greater tribute than that which was being exacted to make John D. Rockefeller 300 and 400 times a millionaire and his associates proportionately rich beyond the fancies of the most vaulting ambition. Is it possible that such work as this shall escape a day of reckoning at the hands of an outraged and plundered nation?

Doctors and Matrimony

By Winifred Black

A WELL-KNOWN doctor was defendant in a suit for divorce filed against him by his wife the other day.

He declares that his wife is insanely jealous, and, in a burst of confidence, he told the newspaper men that no doctor had any right to be married anyway.

"Women can't understand the difference between a profitable patient and a sweetheart," said the doctor. "Every time I had a woman patient who came to me more than two or three times, my wife was sure the patient was in love with me, which was bad, or that I was in love with the patient, which was worse."

Poor man! He certainly did seem to be in a predicament.

Ought doctors to marry?

Of course they ought. I wouldn't employ a single man for a physician in my family for a good many reasons, the chief of which is that a man past thirty-five who has never married has something wrong with him some way, and I don't want a man with something wrong with him some way coming into my family at all hours of the day and night.

But if I were a jealous woman I would not marry a physician.

It doesn't do for a man with a tendency to dizziness to learn the trade of steeplejack, does it?

And you wouldn't advise a cripple, however clever and however plucky, to enter his name in the Marathon races—every man to his trade, and every woman to her temperament.

The only sort of woman who has any right to marry a physician at all is the woman who is so absolutely certain of herself, and so perfectly indifferent to what her husband thinks of other women that she would have to see him at the very marriage altar with another to believe that she herself was no longer the lode star of his existence.

Talk it over with your sweetheart, young Mr. Medico, have the question threshed out with her before you marry her, and—whisper—it wouldn't be a bad idea to have a phonograph in the room.

The record will come in handy when you've been married about six months.
